Saudi Arabia balks at 15% hike, to hold raise to 5%

DOHA, Qatar (AP) — Conservative oil giant Saudi Arabia broke with the oil cartel today and refused to go along with a 15 per cent price increase decreed by 11 of the 13 members. The Saudis said they would raise production to hold the price increase to 5 per cent for the next year.

Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, the Saudi oil minister, predicted the 11 other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries would be unable to apply their increase.

But he cautioned, "Don't be too happy in the West. OPEC continues to be strong. Saudi Arabia cannot live without OPEC and OPEC cannot live without Saudi Arabia."

The United Arab Emirates, fifth largest producer in the cartel, joined Saudi Arabia in deciding to boost the oil prices by 5 per cent on Jan. 1 and maintaining that price for a year.

The other 11 OPEC members — Iran, Iraq, Venezuela, Kuwait, Nigeria, Libya, Indonesia, Algeria, Qatar, Gabon and Ecuador — insisted on a 15 per cent increase in two stages: 10 per cent on Jan. 1 and 5 per cent on July 1. Specific figures issued later put the total increase at 15.5 per cent.

A communique issued by the 11-nation majority at close of OPEC's ministerial conference said the base price of $11.51 per barrel of crude oil will be raised by $1.19 on Jan. 1 and by another 60 cents on July 1, bringing it then to a total $13.30 per barrel.

In Washington, Secretary of Commerce Elliot L. Richardson said OPEC oil increases would mean a rise in the consumer price index and higher unemployment in the United States. He predicted that a 15 per cent price increase would result in a rise of about half a million more unemployed by the end of 1978.

U.s. government figures show that a 5 per cent increase by OPEC would raise U.S. gasoline prices by one cent a gallon. If it goes up by 10 per cent, the retail increase will be two cents a gallon.

Ontario opens its heart to fire victims

Ontario city officials, Salvation Army workers and Red Cross officials today are beginning an extensive search for persons who lost their homes in the Camelot Apartment house fire on Rosewood Court in Ontario Wednesday night.

Capt. Jim Hoskin of the Salvation Army said his group has been contacting as many fire victims as possible. Many, however, have returned to their burnt out apartments, taken what little was left, and disappeared.

Hoskin said, "These people may still be in shock and not yet come to the realization that they will have to put their lives together again.

"They have no where else to go but up," he said, adding, "The Salvation Army is standing by."

In the meantime, the response for aid from the community has been more than substantial. The Salvation Army has been swamped with offers of clothing, food, blankets, furniture, appliances including refrigerators as well as houses and apartments for rent.

The Parkway Kiwanis Club of Ontario has established a Rosewood Court Fire Disaster Trust Fund which already contains several hundred dollars.

Two Ontario restaurants are offering free meals to fire victims.

Relief officials are still anxious to find the victims and let them know what services and offers have been made available to them. For information, those persons may call the Salvation Army office in Ontario at 986-6748 and ask for Captain Hoskin.

Additonally, the Ontario Community Relations Director, Paul Gomez will meet with representatives of the owners of the apartments, Foss-Beresford Investment Properties of San Bernardino today in hopes of learning the whereabouts of other fire victims.

"The records of the people living there are still available," said Gomez this morning, "and we hope to find out how many people we are looking for or perhaps get a work telephone number and contact them that way."

Gomez said the city will also contact the schools in the area to find children of residents of the apartments. Fire victims are asked to contact Gomez at the city hall, 986-1151, Ext. 222.

Fire victims may also contact the Red Cross in Ontario at 986-6651.

Persons wishing to donate supplies may do so at the Salvation Army headquarters, 1412 S. Euclid Ave.; the Red Cross at 209 E. I St. or at Sawyer's Union Station, 1425 E. Fourth St., Ontario where donations of canned and non-perishable foods, bed linen and towels are being accepted on a 24-hour-a-day basis. George Sawyer, owner of the station, and Martin Keeney, manager of Denny's Restaurant, are coordinating the donations.

Those interested may contact Sawyer at 983-9428 or Keeney at 983-2511.

In a related story, Ontario Chief Fire Inspector Rick Lebel said Thursday that there were no spark arrestors on the chimneys of the Rosewood Court apartments. Lebel said, "There is no city code requiring spark arrestors in chimneys, but it is an extreme hazard not to have them particularly in homes or apartments with shake shingle roofs."

Public confidence shaken

Latest setback may kill swine flu shot program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The swine flu immunization program may be dead even if the vaccine is cleared of any connection with a paralytic disease that has led to the second suspension of the program in two months, federal health officials indicate.

Shaken public confidence in the vaccine and the fact that restarting the program may come too late in the influenza season for effective immunization cloud the program's future, Dr. Theodore Cooper of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said Thursday.

Cooper said he would not declare the swine flu program dead yet, but he conceded that it would be difficult for it to go on.

"It will be very difficult to convince the public," said Cooper, HEW assistant secretary for health.

Federal officials suspended the program Thursday to investigate reports that some vaccinated persons have developed Guillain-Barre syndrome, a disease affecting the nervous system.

Officials stressed that there was no proven association between the swine flu vaccine and the disease, but that the program suspension was "prudent" until the possibility of such a link was checked out.

Cooper said the program may be suspended "as much as a month" while investigators review data. If it takes this long, it could be mid-January before the program is restarted, well into the traditional flu season, he said.

The U.S. Center for Disease Control in Atlanta said 94 cases of Guillain-Barre syndrome were reported from 14 states through the flu program surveillance system. Of these, 51 had been vaccinated against the swine flu, 31 had not and the status of 12 was unknown, the CDC said.

Four persons with the disease died, and all four had received the flu vaccine, officials said. Three of the deaths were attributed to respiratory failure and one to blood clots in the lungs.

William Foege, assistant CDC administrator, also indicated that the program faces a dim future.

"We recognized that when we stopped it, it would be intensely difficult to restart" because public confidence in the program would have been shaken, Foege said.

But he and other health officials emphasized that if a swine flu epidemic begins to develop, the program would restart immediately.

"The risk from the syndrome is small no matter how we look at it. The risk is nowhere near the risk of flu," Roege said.

Since President Ford initiated the $135-million swine flu program last spring, it has been dogged with problems. A White House spokesman said Ford "concurred in the decision" about the latest suspension.

The program was halted in October when 30 elderly persons died after getting swine flu shots. The program resumed again after the CDC said it found no link between the vaccine and the deaths, but public participation waned.

Officials said 34.9 million persons had been vaccinated by the beginning of December, including about one-fourth of the eligible adults at whom the program was aimed.

For those who already have received swine flu shots, Cooper said all present evidence indicates there is no statistical risk from Guillian-Barre disease if the shot was received at least three weeks ago.

Of those who got the disease after receiving swine flu vaccine, symptoms appeared one to three weeks after the shot, officials said.

"I can't guarantee that anyone who had the vaccine recently — if an association is proved — that they won't come down with it (Guillain-Barre disease)," Cooper said.

A CDC spokesman said the incidence of the disease is unknown because it is infrequent and not required to be reported. But he said the best estimate was about 4,000 cases a year in the United States.

The disease usually causes muscle weakness and temporary paraylysis, and sometimes can be fatal.

FOUND SAFE

Six-month-old Jason Timothy Bustillos, kidnaped last Sunday night from his crib in Lennox, was found Thursday night in the back of a Montclair bar lying in a cardboard box. He has been reunited with his parents. Police have few clues in the case. Ransom was never demanded.

Ford to get staff's recommendation on Expo 81 before Yule vacation

By TERRY WADE
PB Washington Correspondent

President Ford will have his staff recommendation on the proposed Expo 81 before he leaves Sunday for Christmas vacation in Colorado, according to White House sources.

A senior White House advisor called it a "95 per cent certainty" that the staff will have their recommendations in Ford's hand today or Saturday.

There are still no indications what the recommendations will be, however. And there is also uncertainty as to when the president will make the decision. It is possible Mr. Ford could give an answer before Sunday, but since there is no deadline for White House approval he could wait until returning from Vail, Colo. on Jan. 2.

"It wouldn't surprise me if there is an answer before he left," Allen Moore, a member of the White House domestic counsel said. "And it wouldn't surprise me if there isn't an answer before he returns."

Moore also indicated Ford could make the decision while in Vail. The report Ford will receive will include staff recommendations — "there can be more than one" according to Moore — laid out with some background.

Kidnaped baby found unharmed in box behind Montclair bar

TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

A week-long search for six-months-old Jason Timothy Bustillos of Lennox ended happily Thursday night when the baby was found healthy, but hungry, inside a small cardboard box behind the Horseshoe Bar at 3993 Mission Blvd., Montclair.

The baby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Bustillos of Lennox, was positively identified by his parents several hours after he was discovered by West End Sheriff's deputies.

The child was picked up by two Los Angeles Sheriff's detectives about 11 p.m. and flown back to Lennox where he was reunited with his happy parents.

West End Sheriff's Deputy Rod Mainord said that the Sheriff's dispatcher received a telephone call at 6:18 p.m. from an anonymous man.

Mainord said the voice, possibly of a young man between 14 and 17 years old, said "There's a small baby in a small box behind the Horseshoe Bar."

The caller, after giving the message, immediately hung up.

Sgt. Mainord dispatched Deputy Owen Olson to the location.

As stated, the baby was found lying in a cardboard box and wrapped in a blanket.

Mainord said he met Olson at Doctors Hospital in Montclair where the baby was checked by a doctor and found to be in good condition, very clean, but extremely hungry.

Mainord said he saw the baby and recalled a picture he had seen of a crying mother and a baby similar in description on a television news show earlier in the week.

Mainord was unaware that the baby was Jason, believed kidnapped from his crib by someone who had crawled through the child's bedroom window late Sunday night or early Monday morning.

Los Angeles Sheriff's detective D. Tankersley told Mainord to look on the child's stomach to see if he had a small circular birthmark like that of the missing boy.

"Sure enough, there was a birthmark," said Mainord.

Mainord notified Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and Central Division detectives of the find as Tankersley and other Los Angeles detectives prepared to fly to the West End Sheriff's Substation by helicopter to pick up the child and return him to his parents.

At 11 p.m., Mr. and Mrs. Bustillos and the baby were reunited after the child was positively identified as little Jason.

According to Los Angeles Sheriff's deputies, the night or morning the baby was kidnapped, Doris Bustillos, 22, had put her son to bed about 10 p.m. in another room.

The next morning, when Mrs. Bustillos went into the room, the baby was missing from its crib, along with his blanket.

Deputies, summoned to the home, found that a screen had been removed from a bedroom window and the window raised.

For four days, the Bustillos family became more concerned when no communications from the abductors had been received.

During the four days, Los Angeles Sheriff's detectives, FBI agents and many other law enforcement agencies in the area worked feverishly to find a clue in the kidnaping with little success.

Firm's offering free taxi rides home for drinkers

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — In an effort to cut down on drinking drivers, Fingerhut Corp. is offering its 2,586 employes and their friends free taxi rides home after they've imbibed during the holiday season.

Officials of the direct-mail marketing firm advised employes Wednesday that they should take a taxi at company expense rather than try to drive when they've had too much to drink.

The company also told workers they can offer taxi transportation to anyone they think should not be driving.

Company President Ted Deikel said the offer was an effort to actually do something to encourage persons who have been drinking not to drive, rather than just talking about it.

Bonelli Park's nature center has been shelved

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

Bonelli Park in San Dimas has become the latest victim of the county's current austerity program.

The Los Angeles County Parks and Recreation Department announced today that Phase Five, which would have created a $1 million nature center there, has been shelved.

With Phase Four and the Mountain Meadows Golf Course now completed, the county has spent more than $20 million on the 2,000 acre regional park bounded by San Dimas, La Verne and Pomona.

Still to be built is Phase Four-A, which calls for grading the land for an equestrian Center and for a recreational vehicle park, and a half-million-dollar clubhouse and restaurant at the golf course.

Seymour Greben, parks and recreation director, said the county will do the grading required on Phase Four-A but the construction of the equestrian center and the park will be handled by private parties to save the county additional money.

He said the open land which had been set aside for the nature center between Puddingstone Dam and Interstate 210 will be left as is.

Plans originally called for the construction of a more formal setting with underground irrigation. The parks department had hoped to plant flora that is characteristic of the area and to conduct tours for schools and do field work.

Schematic plans already were drawn showing how the open area was to be developed, but the parks department stopped there after the Supervisors began chopping away at the budget last September.

Greben now says that it will take five to ten years for the department to take a good second look at the proposal.

Still to be constructed is a $500,000 clubhouse at the golf course.

COUNT 'EM

These ducks at Bonelli Park won't be the most unusual birds sighted Saturday, but they'll have their numbers taken when the Pomona Valley Audobon Society holds it annual Christmas Bird Count throughout the valley. Last year 116 kinds of birds were spotted.

Audobon Society prepares for Christmas Bird Count

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

As yuletide bargain hunters scurry into the last week of the Christmas countdown, members of the Pomona Valley Audobon Society will be doing some hunting of their own Saturday.

Unlike their shopping center brethren, however, Audobon members will leave their checkbooks and credit cards at home — arming themselves instead with fieldglasses, warm sweaters and jugs of hot coffee.

Then, before dawn can crack, they'll be off to the fields, parks, backyards and mountains for the organization's fifth annual Christmas Bird Count.

Whether it's a Pied-Bill Grebe, an American Wigeon, a Bushtit, a Pygmy Nuthatch, a Loggerhead Shrike, or just a plain old Crow, they'll count every beak in sight.

About 30 members of the Pomona Valley Audobon Society will participate in the count, which actually begins at 12:01 a.m. Saturday and continues for 24 hours.

"Some of us will be up at 3 in the morning listening for owls," said Daniel Guthrie, Claremont Colleges biology professor and president of the local Audobon Society.

The count, explained Guthrie, is done throughout a circle 15 miles in diameter, stretching from the Mt. Baldy ski lift area to Chino, and the Puddingstone reservoir area to Alta Loma.

Members station themselves at strategic points and count both species and individual birds.

When the fowl deed was completed last year, 28 observors had tallied 116 different kinds of birds and more than 10,000 individuals.

"We get together afterward to go over the sightings," said Guthrie.

Quite naturally the number of individual birds counted is only an approximation, but there is emphasis placed on the accuracy of species sighted.

"If we get a really unexpected sighting we go out the next day and try and confirm it. If we can't we probably don't include it in our report," said Guthrie.

The count tabulated by the valley organization is then sent off to the Audobon Society's national headquarters, where it becomes part of international count.

Last year more than 1,100 counts were taken in the United States, Canada, Europe and South America.

In some places they have been staging a Christmas Bird Count for 76 years.

Why?

"If the count is conducted in a consistent manner, you can see trends, increases or decreases, in the population of specific species. It can be a warning if a species is in trouble," said Guthrie.

Since birds also tend to among the more fragile life forms in the wild, the count can also tell man about some of his own troubles.

"An index of the bird population is a pretty good indication of the health of the environment," said Guthrie.

"And it's a lot fun," he adds.

For those interested in such details, the species represented by only one bird in last year's local count were: Great Blue Heron, Green Heron, Common Merganser, Ferruginous Hawk, Spotted Sandpiper, Screech Owl, Costa's Hummingbird, Downy Woodpecker, Pygmy Nuthatch, Dipper, Varied Thrush, Fox Sparrow, Cattle Egret, White-fronted Goose, European Wigeon, Redhead, Least Sandpiper, Western Sandpiper and Western Flycatcher.

McVittie re-introduces 'sunset' bill

Several measures introduced, including prison replacements

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A San Francisco area state senator wants California to replace its two oldest state prisons, Folsom and San Quentin.

Sen. John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, has introduced legislation requiring that that be done and allocating an unspecified amount of money to do it.

San Quentin, located north of San Francisco, was established in 1852. Folsom, which is east of Sacramento, was opened in 1880.

Nejedly's bill was introduced Thursday along with measures that would raise jurors' pay and require large grocery stores to price items by quantity.

Also, a Southern California assemblyman announced that he had introduced a so-called "sunset" bill that would abolish all state regulatory agencies on Jan. 1, 1982, unless legislation extending their existance was approved.

The jurors' bill was proposed by Sen. Alex Garcia, D-Los Angeles, who said the measure was designed to "eliminate the financial hardship which too many people encounter when sitting on a jury."

It would raise jurors' pay from $5 to $25 a day.

The sunset bill by Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-Upland, would require regulatory agencies to prove to the legislature they were needed in order to continue to exist after the 1982 cutoff date.

"Too many state agencies take for granted that funds to keep them operating will be available whether or not there is continued justification for the services they offer," McVittie said.

The measure also says that all new state agencies established after the bill took effect could have only a five-year life span.

A similar bill was killed last session.

A bill by Assemblywoman Teresa Hughes, D-Los Angeles, would require large grocers to use unit pricing on shelves so shoppers could be sure they were getting the most for their money.

That would require grocers to list the price of a can of applesauce, for example, at so much per unit weight.

"With so many varieties of a product sold at different sizes and prices, shoppers should be able to compare prices without having to use a computer," Ms. Hughes said.

"For example, suppose you want to buy a can of applesauce in a supermarket. Which is the best buy: 16 ounces for 34 cents, 23 ounces for 55 cents or 25 ounces for 65 cents?"

"In this instance the largest can is the most expensive per ounce."

The measure would not apply to smaller, "mom-and-pop" markets.

Also introduced were measures dealing with:

—REDLINING: This bill by Ms. Hughes would put anti-redlining regulations into the law, thus making them more difficult to ignore or repeal.

Redlining is the name given to the practice of systematically refusing to make loans in low-income areas.

Earlier this year the Brown administration issued regulations making it illegal for state-chartered savings and loans to engage in redlining.

—WATER: This measure, also introduced by Nejedly, would authorize the board of directors of a municipal utility district that owns and operates a water system to restrict water use during a shortage.

—INVENTORY TAXES: Assemblyman Bill Lockyer, D-San Leandro, introduced a measure that would abolish the state's business inventory tax, a step he said would aid the economy.

Alphabet Bomber suspect dismissed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Muharem Kurbegovic, pictured by prosecutors as a master actor and by his own attorneys as a paranoid schizophrenic, has been declared mentally incompetent to stand trial on charges that he was the Alphabet Bomber.

The jury's finding Thursday means that Kurbegovic cannot be tried for the 25 felony counts pending against him, which include murder charges in the deaths of three persons killed in an explosion at Los Angeles International Airport in August 1974.

Eagles auxiliary provide T-shirts at workshop

Members of Pomona Eagles Auxiliary and Aerie 2215 will provide 66 T-shirts to participants of the Pomona Valley Sheltered Workshop at the workshop's annual Christmas party tonight.

During past years, auxiliary members have provided gifts for the workshop but this is the first year that the men's department of the Eagles is participating in the holiday program.

Pomonan will receive Eagle rank tonight

Paul Mikel, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mikel of Pomona, will be awarded his Eagle Scout rank tonight at the First Lutheran Church in Pomona.

Mikel is a member of Troop 116 and a sophomore at Damien High School. He joined scouting in 1969 as a Cub Scout. During the years, he has been an assistant patrol leader, patrol leader, troop scribe, assistant senior patrol leader and senior patrol leader. He earned all 12 skill awards, received the Buckskin Award and was named to the Order of the Arrow.

For his Eagle project, Mikel organized a paint crew to renovate the interior of St. Madeleine Catholic Church Parish rectory. He is a member of the parish and active in the Teen Club and Youth Choir.

Special guests at tonight's ceremony will be Mikel's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Powell of Powers Lake, N.D., who have traveled to Pomona for the service.

DEATH LEAP

An unidentified man jumps to his death from a building in downtown Brisbane today. Police tried to reach him to persuade him not to jump but were unsuccessful.

Gilmore expected to live after second suicide try

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Doctors expect convicted killer Gary Gilmore to recover from his second drug overdose and be well enough to face a firing squad on Jan. 17.

But Utah State Prison authorities and sheriff's investigators launched an investigation Thursday into how Gilmore obtained enough phenobarbitol tablets to make him unconscious for the second time in 30 days.

Gilmore, told Wednesday that he could not have next Monday for his execution date as he wanted, was rushed Thursday morning to University of Utah Medical Center in critical condition after a guard found him comatose in his cell.

Doctors said that the latest sedative overdose, unlike the first, was potentially lethal. But they said Gilmore was expected to regain consciousness today and would survive.

His condition was complicated by pneumonia caused when he inhaled food from his stomach into his lungs.

Prison Warden Samuel Smith said officials checked with the prison pharmacist to learn what drugs maximum security inmates had been issued. He said drugs can easily be passed between inmates because cells are separated by bars, not walls.

"I don't feel any embarassment. I think it was to be expected," said Smith. "If a man of intelligence wants to commit suicide, he's going to find a way."

He said he assumed Gilmore was given a routine shakedown when he was sent to maximum security on Wednesday. Gilmore was put in a stripped-down cell and was authorized visits by his attorney, but not his relatives, said Deputy Warden Leon Hatch.

In court Wednesday, Gilmore denounced 4th District Court Judge J. Robert Bullock for setting his third date with the firing squad more than a month away. He called the judge a "moral coward" and said the latest delay constituted cruel and unusual punishment.

All-party summit on Italy violence

ROME (AP) — Premier Giulio Andreotti called leaders of all political parties together today to discuss political violence that has resulted in the death of six persons in the past three days.

A bomb went off in a handbag during the rush hour Thursday evening in Brescia, killing a woman and critically injuring two policemen. Three police officers and two leftist guerrillas were killed in daytime street battles in Rome and Milan Tuesday and Wednesday.

Hundreds of policemen demonstrated outside the interior ministry in Rome, shouting: "The state must protect us! We want harsher penalties for crimes!"

They also accused the courts of being too lenient with bail.

The all-party meeting was proposed by the Socialists, which along with the Communists supports Andreotti's minority Christian Democrat government by abstaining on key votes in parliament.

Birth control pill for men possible within five years

SEATTLE (AP) — A birth control pill for men that has advantages over presently available pills for women could be marketed within five years, says a University of Washington researcher.

The compound for men causes only slight weight gain and no blood clotting, said Dr. C. Alvin Paulsen, a professor of medicine and director of the World Health Organization task force on male fertility.

However, it is only 80 to 85 per cent effective and therefore must be improved before marketing, Paulsen said.

"Several combinations of drugs are being explored, but which one will win the race in terms of effectiveness and safety, I don't know," he said.

Paulsen's method — involving daily doses of danazol, a weak male hormone, in combination with monthly injections of testosterone, the major male sex hormone — has been tested on hundreds of men since 1973 in the United States.

He said he hopes a way will be found for men to give their own monthly injections of testosterone by the time the contraceptive goes into public use. The drugs block sperm production in the testes, the male sex glands, by suppressing secretion of special hormones by the pitultary gland.

Experimental use of the new treatment showed side effects to be minimal, Paulsen said.

"There was an average three pound weight gain, but no increase in blood pressure and no dizziness," Paulsen said. Those symptoms, along with clotting, are commonly associated with the female contraceptive, he said.

Paulsen said his five-year projection was more optimistic than that of some scientists and was based on the assumption there would be adequate research funding.

He said he is optimistic that the effectiveness of the male contraceptive can be increased within the five-year period because the support for research into male contraceptives is growing.

He attributed the increased interest in part to more male willingness to take responsibility for preventing pregnancy.

Man in Hughes will tells of woes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Melvin Dummar says the Howard Hughes will that named him as a beneficiary has made a mess of his life.

"It's been a frightening experience," Dummar said in an interview with Los Angeles-based KABC-TV Wednesday from Ogden, Utah. "I wouldn't wish it on anybody else in the world — all the accusations, the dirt throwing, what have you, has just completely ruined me."

Dummar was a service station operator in Willard, Utah, when he burst into the public eye as one of the beneficiaries of the so-called Mormon Will. That will and about 30 others that have surfaced since Hughes' death last April have been called hoaxes by Summa Corp., the holding company for Hughes' vast financial interests.

Dummar said he gave up his service station because a new freeway bypassed the station and "completely wiped out the business."

"I haven't been able to find employment," he said. "I think there's a lot of people who think I'm just joking when I say I need a job."

He said the money he's received from movie rights has been spent on lawyers.

As to recent allegations that his fingerprints were on the envelope that contained the will, Dummar said, "I believe someone else planted them there. I never touched that envelope."

"I am in no way involved if it is a hoax," Dummar said.

Transportation chief okays first offshore superports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman today authorized construction of the nation's first offshore superports but placed economic and environmental restrictions on their operations.

The superports would allow oil tankers too large to dock at regular U.S. ports to unload their liquid cargo miles from shore. The oil then would be pumped through pipes to shore.

Coleman said he will require that superport owners operate the facilities in a nondiscrimynatory manner, accepting cargo from anyone who wants to unload. He said the owners could not impose any anticompetitive conditions.

He also directed that superport owners take all necessary steps to protect the environnment and said they must agree in writing to assume complete liability for oil spills.

In addition, Coleman directed the owners to monitor environmental effects of the superports and said further conditions could be imposed if necessary.

The economic limitations basically follow recommendations of the Justice Department and the Federal Trade Commission. The two agencies had objected to the way the consortiums which want to build the ports had planned to operate them.

The consortiums, which are made up of oil and chemical companies, plan to build the ports off the coast of Texas and Louisiana.

The government agencies had argued that the consortiums' plans would reduce competition and hike imported oil prices. They urged Coleman to impose restrictions that would keep this from happening.

The licenses granted by Coleman are for 20 years. They can be canceled at any time if the owners fail to live up to the license conditions.

Coleman said authorization of the licenses is in the national interest because it will allow cheaper transportation of imported oil.

He noted that the United States imports about 40 per cent of its petroleum and said that increased flexibility and efficiency in importing foreign oil "may contribute to our (energy) independence by preserving domestic resources, facilitating the accumulation of strategic reserves and enabling us to respond to a crisis more efficiently."

Coleman said the nation's development of alternate domestic energy resources and its commitment to energy conservation can be enhanced by other policy actions such as tariffs or taxes "rather than by denying ourselves the benefits of the latest technology in port development and the environmental and economic advantages of the very large crude oil carriers."

He said the new facilities would contribute to the U.S. strategic petroleum reserve program and that it was generally in the interest of national security.

The secretary said the likelihood of oil spills resulting from unloading, from shipment and from harbor collisions will be reduced substantially by the offshore ports.

'Was twisted in my head,'—Patty in TV interview

NEW YORK (AP) — Patricia Hearst says she's still trying to figure out how she got so "twisted around in my own head" that she never tried to escape from the Symbionese Liberation Army.

"It's crazy. It doesn't make any sense at all, and it's something that I'm still working on myself," the convict-heiress said in a nationally televised interview on CBS Thursday night.

The interview was conducted at the Hearst family castle at San Simeon, Calif. Miss Hearst, seated on a sofa, wore a long blue dress, with a printed scarf knotted fashionably around the neck.

The 22-year-old daughter of newspaper executive Randolph Hearst told interviewer Harold Dow much the same story of her life with the underground terrorists that was rejected by the jury in her bank robbery trial earlier this year.

But she issued her strongest denunciation yet of the six SLA members who were killed in a Los Angeles house on May 17, 1974: "I feel that they got exactly what they deserved in Los Angeles, exactly what they'd asked for. And I don't feel sorry for them at all."

She said she was forced to tape the eulogy in which she mourned the deaths. "I guess people thought that I really liked them," she said.

Of her personal plans, Miss Hearst, who is free on $1.25 million bail while appealing her conviction, said she would like to travel and start working soon. As for marriage, she said, "That's going to have to wait for awhile."

She also said the family had just gotten its Christmas tree and said she expected her first Christmas at home in three years would be "fantastic."

Miss Hearst, who denied during her trial ever being a sincere member of the SLA, said she felt she owed her life to her ability to persuade her captors that she was.

"Oh yes, definitely," she said. "If no one believed it, I wouldn't be sitting here right now."

She also said the SLA succeeded in making her believe her family didn't want her anymore, "and that, of course, isn't true.

"Looking back, and of course it was really stupid, but at the time I felt that I had nowhere to go."

Brief segments of the interview were first shown on the CBS Evening News. Leading into the abbreviated portions, anchorman Walter Cronkite noted that Miss Hearst had told her story in court but had never spoken on her captivity directly to the public.

Cronkite said the ground rules for the interview prohibited questions on sensitive areas, including the heiress's upcoming trial in Los Angeles on charges of kidnaping, robbery and assault stemming from an attempted shoplifting at a sporting goods store.

Miss Hearst, kidnaped by the SLA on Feb. 4, 1974, was convicted of helping the group rob a San Francisco bank in April of that year. She was arrested in San Francisco in September 1975 while living with fugitive radical Wendy Yoshimura, who is now on trial on charges of possessing weapons and explosives.

Volcanic power used

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — This Central American country recently inaugurated a new geothermal plant named "Ahuachapan 1," which uses volcanic steam deep in the earth to produce electricity.

The venture gives the small country the distinction of being the second country in Latin America and the eighth in the world to use geothermal sources for electric power.

Area women rap report on MIA's

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Two area women have branded as ridiculous a special House panel report that there are no Americans still being held prisoners from the Indochina war.

"I think they are way off base," said Mrs. Diane Nichols of Upland to a statement issued this week by the House Select Committee on Missing Persons in Southeast Asia, appointed 15 months ago to probe the MIA issue.

"I think he is ludicrous in his statement," commented Mrs. Fran Masterson of Montclair, referring to Rep. G. V. Montgomery, D-Miss., committee chairman, who issued the panel's report.

Mrs. Nichols' father, Roy F. Townley, has been missing since Dec. 27, 1971, when he flew an Air America mercy mission over Laos.

Mrs. Masterson's husband, Air Force Maj. Michael "Bat" Masterson, was forced to bail out of his disabled plane over Laos Oct. 13, 1968.

Both women said they look forward to the appointment of a Presidential task force to negotiate with the Vietnamese in Paris after the first of the year.

Both women are members of the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia. Mrs. Nichols is Southern California coordinator.

"We will keep pushing for an accounting by Vietnam of MIAs," Mrs. Nichols said. "The panel says the men are all dead, but they don't know that. The Vietnamese have admitted that they have a lot of information on the MIAs."

Mrs. Nichols said that Vietnam is responsible for information on MIAs in all of Southeast Asia, because the Paris peace pact included Laos and Cambodia.

Mrs. Masterson, one of the founders of the League, said that the panel's statement is "very premature."

"Montgomery can't speak for the Vietnamese and say there are no living American prisoners in Southeast Asia," she said. "How does he know?"

Mrs. Masterson said that she is grateful for the work the panel has done because "the committee opened some doors."

She said that she has talked to Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th, a member of the panel, and that he has agreed with the women that it would be premature to say the men are dead until an accounting has been received from the Vietnamese.

"We had wanted President Ford to appoint a task force, but instead a House select committee was appointed," Mrs. Masterson said.

"We hope to see a bill introduced in the Senate in January that would authorize a Presidential task force," she said.

She commented that President Ford said he would not change the status of any missing man during his administration.

Such a task force would negotiate on a presidential level with the Vietnamese in Paris.

Mrs. Masterson said that the Vietnamese are willing to negotiate because they want admission to the U.N. and $3.5 billion for reconstruction.

She said there are still 800 American servicemen for whom there has been no accounting.

Clue to cancer

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Scientists think they may have found a clue to why certain chemicals cause cancer in living cells.

The scientists say more study is necessary before they can be sure that the biological reaction they have isolated is what causes cancer. But they say that if they are on the right track, their research may speed the search for a cure.

The research team, headed by Dr. Bea Singer of the University of California's Virus and Space Sciences Laboratory, used N-nitroso compounds, a chemical group known to cause cancer in laboratory animals.

When combined in a test tube with parts of a gene, Dr. Singer said, the chemicals attached themselves to all the oxygen molecules in the gene.

The gene is the basic unit of heredity and governs the reproduction of cells in all living organisms. Many scientists believe that cancer cells can form when genetic information gets garbled by chemical changes within the gene.

Dr. Singer's findings, published in the current issue of Nature magazine, a British publication, are considered important because chemists previously believed that such combinations of oxygen with the cancer-causing chemicals were impossible.

The report therefore adds a new possibility for the cause of cancer.

"It's an interesting question about whether the mechanism that we found may be responsible for carcinogenesis in general," Dr. Singer said.

Juvenile justice program may get help

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

San Bernardino County supervisors may get some unexpected help from the state in implementing requirements of the new juvenile justice reform bill.

Gov. Edmund Brown, Jr. surprised the supervisors this week with an offer to help the county pay for the state-mandated program which takes effect on Jan 1.

The county's costs per year have been estimated at about $200,000, which would pay for 10 new county positions required to implement the reforms.

Brown said in a letter to the board that the state Department of Finance will recognize county costs of implementing AB 3121 (the new bill).

"Although the Legislature disclaimed any local costs due to insufficient information, we have analyzed the bill as having direct county costs, and will work with the County Supervisors' Association in determining what proper reimbursements should be provided," said Brown.

Supervisors had threatened to sue the state last month to recover monies needed to implement the new law. In fact, Chairman Dennis Hansberger stated that Brown was "just flat lying to the public" when he said state taxes were not being raised to support new programs.

The board declared the state often mandates new programs without providing the county with any funds to put them into effect.

Brown also expressed concern over state-mandated programs in his letter and told supervisors to supply a list of such programs "which you feel could be removed or modified by the state."

Hansberger noted he was "surprised" by the governor's letter and was "heartened. I hope this sets a precedent in that local government will be working with the state."

MSAC, faculty negotiations are deadlocked

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

A snag has developed between Mt. San Antonio College and its faculty that may stall negotiations for a new master contract for months. The faculty association has rejected as "totally unacceptable" and action by the board of trustees this week that gives the teachers a total of 216 hours of release time to conduct negotiations with the board each year.

Mrs. Pat Perez, president of the faculty association, told the board the offer did not leave enough time for negotiations.

But Trustee Travis Manning contended that the board was required to give the teachers only "reasonable time off" under the law, and that the board's offer was "not negotiable."

Mrs. Perez insisted that release time was a negotiable item and that the association has authorized her to reject it (the board's offer).

The teachers last month submitted a request, asking for 1,080 hours of release time a year from classroom duties — equivalent to one fifth time for 10 instructors. The board has countered by allowing 216 hours — half to be classroom time and the other half release time from other than classroom assignments.

Board president Richard Todd cast a dissenting vote on the proposal. He said he felt the teachers should negotiate on their own time, the same as the board.

"I know that the state says we must give release time," he declared, "but I'm wholly against the whole idea. I don't know of anyone else who gets paid time off for negotiating his own salary raises or other benefits."

He contended that if any money is to be paid it should come from the faculty association's treasury.

Trustee William Temple estimated that if the board gave in to the teacher's demand, it would have to hire two additional teachers to take up the slack. He said that would cost the district nearly $50,000.

Going on the assumption that the release time issue is not negotiable, the board then turned its attention to the teacher's request for consideration of the master contract. The trustees set Jan. 5 for a public hearing at which the proposal will be considered.

The teachers want to tie their salary range to a cost-of-living index and are seeking an additional three per cent raise for the fiscal year that starts July 1.

Most of the master contract embodies agreements which already are in effect at the college but are being consolidated in the master contract.

As for the release time, Mrs. Perez said she will contact the association's attorneys to verify that the teachers do not have to accept the board's proposal.

Opening lead — 6 ♦

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Today's hand is one of the classic swindles of all time. At those tables where North played three notrump the declarer would take the spade finesse and make all 13 tricks. However, most declarers wound up in four spades.

A club lead would hold them to 11 tricks, but nearly everyone opened that singleton six of diamonds whereupon South would go up with dummy's king, take that same spade finesse and make all the tricks.

Now see if you can figure out how one declarer managed to go down at four spades.

It wasn't really too difficult for him to work out the losing play. He did get a diamond lead: he did hop up with dummy's king, but only after considerable study.

This gave East time to see the potential swindle. He dropped the queen of diamonds under the king!

Now South read East, not West for the singleton diamond. He led dummy's queen of spades and East played low. So South went up with his ace in order to try to keep East from ruffing that diamond. Now he led a second spade. East took his king; gave his partner a diamond ruff and two club tricks completed the rout.

What's going on around here

New Years Eve slumber party

A New Years Eve slumber party for boys and girls from 5 to 12 years of age will be offered by the Pomona Valley YMCA.

The party will begin at 7:30 p.m. New Years eve and continue through 10 a.m. on New Years day. Activities will include movies, games, songs, midnight swim and snack, trampoline, tumbling and crafts.

Cost will be $10 for YMCA members, with $5 for the second child from one family. For non-members the cost will be $15, with $7.50 for each additional child from one family.

For information, persons may call 623-6433.

Santa visits Pacific State

Santa Claus is visiting the wards of Pacific State Hospital this week hosting parties and entertainment for the 1,770 residents of the Pomona hospital for the mentally retarded.

Mrs. Hope Ireland, a spokesman for the Parents Association, said the holiday parties are being sponsored by valley clubs and civic organizations.

Patients, too, assist in the planning for parties, she added. Typical of the ward parties is the one in Unit 21 where the residents made Christmas cards and tree decorations.

Entertainment at this party was presented by Adam Baca, Tina Gonzalez, Alfred Shine, Robin Thompson, all accordion students, and their instructor Kathy Curtin.

Claremont city employes honored

Nine Claremont city employes have been honored for years of service.

Mayor Bertye Smith Tuesday night at the City Council meeting introduced each employe, read his or her service record, and each received a service pin.

Following are the employes and their years of service: police Lt. Charles Starcher, 27; police agent Gus Kitterle, 13; officer Paul Gomez, 14; Lt. Red Corson, 18; Sgt. Calvin Morgan, 30; city treasurer Martha Gratz, 18; senior account clerk Eleanor Flippin, 13; planning commission secretary Dorothy Bagosian, 13; and city attorney William G. Bergman, 24.

Yoga class for men

The Upland Recreation Department will offer a yoga class for men only in response to a request by a number of men in the community.

Mrs. Belle Tuckerman will instruct the class which starts on Jan. 6 from 7:45 to 8:45 p.m. A class for women only will be held on the same evening from 8:45 to 9:45.

Both classes will be held at the Cellar, 123 E. D St., Upland. A monthly fee will be charged.

Mrs. Tuckerman will also instruct a mixed class on Wednesdays from 8:30 to 10 a.m. at the Magnolia Recreation Center, 651 W. 15th St., Upland.

Fees may be paid at the Upland Recreation Department, 404 N. Second Ave. Additional information may be obtained by calling 985-0994.

Walter Rieder of Upland was recently presented a National Quality Award plaque by the Pomona Valley Life Underwriters Association.

Rieder is associated with the Pasadena agency of Mutual of New York. The award is given for "services of high quality."

Claremont residents ask for multi-use facility

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Residents living in the Vista School area this week asked the Claremont City Council to use Housing and Community Development Act funds for a multi-use facility in Wheeler Park.

During a public hearing on requests for the use of an estimated $185,000 the city expects in federal funds for 1977-78, the council was receptive to the plea for a building for those "nine months to 90."

In a list of recommendations City Manager Norman King had proposed spending $20,000 for a Wheeler Park play area, but at the meeting, he told the council that the amount could be carried over to another year.

Vista teacher Ella Mitchell told the council she feels there is a need for space additional to the recreational building at Wheeler Park, adjacent to the school.

She said that the children in the after-school program don't have adequate space to play, and would have no protection if it rained.

She complained that senior citizens in the South Claremont area have no place to hold programs, and that it is a long distance to Taylor Hall.

She called for a satellite facility which could house those "from nine months to 90 years."

King said he had received an estimate that adding 800 square feet to the Wheeler Park recreation building would cost about $20,000.

Asked how she felt about spending $20,000 for a play area at Wheeler Park, Mrs. Mitchell said that the present play area is fairly adequate, and that some indoor facility is needed.

Councilwoman Claire McDonald said she is personally in favor of such an improvement at Wheeler Park.

Councilman Frank Hungerford said that he is willing to set the matter aside and let the Parks and Recreation Commission study what is needed at Wheeler Park.

"We haven't studied this in depth," commented Mayor Bertye Smith. "Maybe we can work with the figures of the proposed recommendations and come up with more money that could be used for such a building."

King had recommended that Claremont's anticipated $185,100 be spent as follows: $10,000 for a home insulation pilot program; $2,800 for continuation of housing information; $2,800 for neighborhood participation; $7,500 for continuation of Wheeler Park recreation supervision; $10,000 for continuation of wheelchair ramps and sidewalk repair; $9,000 for continuation of code enforcement; $20,000 for a Wheeler Park play area; $10,000 for an energy conservation technical assistance program;

Also $7,000 for a survey of Claremont historical resources; $8,500 for a rental unit occupancy inspection program; $10,000 for a street tree replacement program; $3,500 for design of freeway noise barriers; $80,000 for a housing rehabilitation program; and $4,000 for administrative overhead.

Automated lab added at SACH

An automated pulmonary function laboratory has been added to the Department of Respiratory Care at San Antonio Community Hospital, Upland.

The $25,000 computerized pulmonary function system equipment allows physicians to have test results seconds after testing patients for obstructive pulmonary disease. These tests determine how much of a diseased lung can be surgically removed.

According to Ray Knittle, supervisor of the pulmonary laboratory, the manually given tests previously used required 45 minutes while this new computer provides accurate results in seconds.

Dr. Fouad Tawadrous, director of the respiratory therapy department, estimates that six patients a day will benefit from the system.

A donation from Mr. and Mrs. Ralph V. Arnold was designated for the purchase of the system.

Fulbright grant goes to D.B. man

Daniel N. Crecelius of Diamond Bar, professor of Middle Eastern history at Cal State Los Angeles, has been awarded a Fulbright grant by the Department of State to conduct research in Indonesia.

Crecelius, a member of the Cal State faculty since 1964, is a recognized scholar in Islamic institutions of the 19th and 20th Centuries, and a specialist on the Ottoman Empire and the modern Middle East. He was the first Western scholar given permission to examine documents essential to research on Islamic institutions.

The professor plans to spend the 1977-78 academic year investigating the modernization of Islamic religious institutions in Indonesia. He will work through the University of Sydney, Australia.

San Dimas phone service is restored

Telephone service in the San Dimas area was returned to normal Thursday after General Telephone construction crews worked until 8:30 p.m. Wednesday repairing a 900-pair buried cable accidentaly damaged by a contractor excavating for the Edison Company.

The incident occurred at 12:55 p.m. Wednesday at the northeast corner of Bonita and Walnut Avenues. There had been no request by the contractor for cable location prior to digging, according to Rick Williams, public affairs representative for the utility.

Approximately 150 pairs of cable were severed and another 150 pairs were damaged in the incident, affecting customers with foreign exchange service in Covina, Pomona and La Verne. Total number of customers affected by the dig up was unknown at press time, according to Williams.

In addition to foreign exchange, some local and direct distance dialing was affected in the San Dimas area, resulting in some customers losing service altogether until the damage could be corrected.

Rowers lose lease over sex charge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Rowing Club has lost its lease in the city building it has occupied for 38 years because the club allegedly refuses to admit women.

The city Parks and Recreation Commission voted recently to kick the club out of the building.

The issue first came up in 1974 when a group of women sued the club and the city for alleged sex bias. John E. McInerney III, attorney for the club, refused to comment on the commission's action because the suit — along with a cross-suit filed by the club — is still in the courts.

Don Solomon, deputy city attorney, said the 14-member Rowing Club will face eviction proceedings within 30 days after it receives official notice of the commission's action, probably in about a week.

The club moved into its present quarters in 1938 under an agreement with the city that it would pay no rent in exchange for maintaining the facilities it used.

NAACP will hold elections

The Pomona Valley Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will hold the election for 1977-79 officers of the local on Saturday.

The voting by the general membership of the local civil rights organization will be from 2 to 5 p.m. at 2243 Larchmont Ave., Pomona. Members are urged to bring their membership cards or the mailed notice sent to them last month.

New evidence on 'black holes' in space

By GUY DARST
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — The celebrated hypothetical "black holes" in space, thought to be the remains of stars that don't radiate light, may not be as black as previously believed, scientists say.

Papers presented at a conference of physicists here on Tuesday show that black holes should indeed radiate light and that the light might be observable with more advanced detection devices in satellites.

The findings point to evidence that could support a new unified theory of physics.

Dennis Sciama of England's Oxford University said the theoretical finding of possible radiation from black holes means that "we may be on the verge of the unification of general relativity and quantum field theory."

A successful merging would be enormously exciting to scientists because it would show that the universal forces of gravity, the subject of general relativity, and electromagnetism, one of the subjects of quantum field theory, are part of some underlying common phenomenon.

The papers were presented at the Eighth Texas Conference on Relativistic Astrophysics, whose name derives from the fact that the first one was held in Texas.

No one has ever seen a black hole or proven their existence, but the objects have been a favorite of science fiction writers, who have suggested they might be doorways to "alternate universes."

And some scientists have suggested that limitless, pollution-free energy could be derived from the holes, whose existence was first hypothesized about 30 years ago.

In theory, a black hole is the remains of a burned-out star that exhausted its nuclear fuel, collapsed and became very small. If an object as big as the earth were made into a black hole, for example, it would be the size of a ball about one inch across, scientists say.

Matter in a black hole is so tightly compacted and its gravity so strong that not even light can escape — hence the term "black hole." It would absorb all light falling on it and radiate none of its own.

Some scientists have suggested that if there were a black hole in our solar system, it would be possible to send a satellite to it, feed it heavy hydrogen or some other fuel, capture the energy released by the hydrogen as it is burned by the black hole and relay the energy to earth.

Astrophysicists believe they have a likely candidate for a black hole in Cygnus X-1 which is 7,500 light years from earth in the constellation Cygnus, the Swan. It consists of a bright star and an unseen source of X rays detectable by satellites.

Satellite observations suggest that glowing gases are being sucked from the star toward the invisible X ray source, presumed to be the black hole. The theory holds that the hole heats the gases so intensely that they generate X rays which are cut off when the black hole passes behind the star about every five days.

Black holes intrigue physicists because they apparently violate the laws of physics. For example, certain subnuclear properties should just disappear under the gravitational pressure.

Science fiction writers have toyed with the idea of a spaceship falling into a black hole and leaving an image of itself fixed on an imaginary spherical surface in space, just above the black hole, called the "event horizon." This surface is given that name because events taking place inside it theoretically could not be detected.

Radiation from black holes was first proposed in a paper three years ago by Steven W. Hawking of Cambridge University in England, who presented a paper here Tuesday.

According to Hawking, the gravitational field just above the "event horizon" should be so strong that it could create particles of light. Some of these should fall into the hole, but others would escape into space and thus constitute radiation.

Such radiation, however, normally would be impossible to detect amid the background radiation of the universe.

Hawking's theory also maintains that scientists could observe the death of a black hole, since they should explode in a burst of gamma rays — radiation even more energetic than X rays.

Such a black hole, said Oxford University's Sciama, should radiate "in its last burst, with about one per cent of the power of our sun from a point in space about the size of an elementary particle such as an electron. The last flash would last one-tenth of a second."

Such flashes have never been seen, but Sciama said the "next generation of detectors (to be carried in satellites) may detect them."

Secretaries want praise

NEW YORK (AP) — What do secretaries want most from their employers?

International Management reports that in order of importance it's praise, attentiveness and small gifts, such as flowers and chocolates.

The magazine cites a survey taken of 153 secretaries in West Germany.

Jean Werner Sommer, a psychologist who conducted the survey, said that it showed that praise and recognition from the boss can be more important to a secretary than a pay raise.

Only two of the secretaries surveyed liked her boss because he took her to dinner.

Porter-Klecinsky nuptial vows said

Our Lady of the Assumption Catholic Church in Claremont was the setting for the marriage of Eileen Marie Klecinsky of Claremont and Kevin Connor Porter of Pomona. The couple was married by the Monsignor William J. Barry in an afternoon ceremony followed by a reception at Tiffany's Restaurant.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael G. Klecinsky of Claremont. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Porter of Claremont.

Miss Trish Lee of Los Gatos was honor attendant. Serving as best man was David Marble of Claremont.

Other attendants were Diane Zandbergan, Jana Porter, Debby Young, David Porter and Eddie Klecinsky.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Mexico and are now at home in Pomona.

Remove stain

Candle wax stains always become more prevalent during the holidays, but they can be removed. First, scrape wax from a tablecloth or other fabric with a dull side of a table knife. Place the stained area between paper towels and press with a warm iron. Then with fabric face down on paper towels, sponge any remaining stain with a dry cleaning solvent. Let dry and launder. If stain persists, soak in an enzyme pre-soak product or oxygen bleach. Wash again, using chlorine bleach if safe for fabric.

Joyce Brothers
Sadism and sex

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My husband was involved in sado-masochism with homosexuals before he married me. He is no longer interested in men, but still enjoys hurting me physically though he's been in psychoanalytic treatment for some time. The pain he inflicts is not always associated with sex. He's a violent man and has beaten me for minor things on several occasions. He threatens to hurt if I talk to his analyst. I've no one to talk to and I don't understand what makes my husband behave this way. — V.N.

DEAR V.N.: You definitely need help and should seek it immediately. No person should have to live in fear of physical injury. Your husband's therapist will help him understand if you leave him in order to protect yourself.

Without knowing more about your case and about your husband, I can only guess at some of his problems. We do know that violent people generally come from violent homes. All children imitate the behavior of their parents and if your husband watched his father maltreat his wife, if he was beaten and abused as a child, then he may be repeating the same pattern and if you have children, unless you act now, they too may grow up and behave in much the same way.

According to Dr. Erich Fromm, sadism is conditioned by a sense of impotence. The wish to have power over others is a compensation for the sense of inability or power to create or to love. The person who suffers from emotional impotence compensates for it by forcing, hurting and controlling others.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Last week, my 14-year-old daughter told me she's been experimenting with marijuana and that she'd decided there was nothing wrong with it. She seems to have decided that it is not harmful and since she is a very willfull girl I don't quite know what to do to stop her. — G.E.

DEAR G.E.: Since she discussed this with you so openly and, as I gather from your letter, she brought up the matter herself, I am led to believe that she may be testing you. Sometimes, when children are given too much freedom they feel insecure and unloved. Discipline and rules signify to a child that parents are still very much involved and not ready to shed responsibility. This can be comforting to an adolescent.

Point out these facts to your daughter:

The use of marijuana is not new. It has been used in many countries for centuries and it has never achieved permanent social acceptance in those countries. This should provide a clue that something is wrong and it is not all that harmless. Even countries with the longest experience have been forced to make its use illegal because of its severe social effects.

In the Middle East, heavy smokers turn inward and tend to live from one moment to another. Their constructive capacity is reduced to nothing. The effect of continuing use on their mental ability generally makes them withdraw into inactivity.

The special danger to the young is that marijuana can become and emotional crutch. Instead of facing a difficult situation and learning by living through it, there is a tendency to retreat and tune out reality. This delays emotional development. Though there is no physiological addiction, continued usage can create psychological dependence.

If your daughter rejects these reasons then you must exert authority and lay down specific rules. If necessary withdraw her allowance, set a curfew and in general, keep closer supervision over her. If you have good communication with her and if you present strong arguments without exaggerating actual scientific facts, you may not need to exert other controls. Keep in mind that she may have tried marijuana and is telling you about it because she needs and wants attention.

Above all, don't procrastinate. Approach and attack the problem now before it becomes a habit. While you're discussing this include other drugs. Make sure you are a well informed mother, not an overemotional one.

Native Daughters plan Yule dinner

Descendants of early rancho families, friends and members of Rancho San Jose Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, will participate in a traditional California tamale dinner from 6 to 8 p.m., Saturday, at Assistance League Hall, 693 N. Palomares St., Pomona.

Preparing the tamales will be Mrs. Paul Strickland of Pomona, a member of the pioneer Alvarado and Pena families, along with members of the parlor. Her husband and children will assist her. Recipes for the entire menu were handed down from generation to generation of early Californians.

A painting by Alphonse B. Fages will be on display. Proceeds from the dinner will be allocated to Children's Foundation welfare and historical projects of the parlor. Members will forego the usual exchange of Christmas gifts and will take canned goods to be presented to a needy local family.

In charge of arrangements are: Mrs. Fages, 622-5674, and Mrs. Donald Carpenter, 599-2265, reservations; Mrs. Walter Kawa, Mrs. James T. Green, Miss Elizabeth Zilles, Mrs. Nancy Hogan and Miss Joyce Elaine Pierce.

Christmas decorations easily made at home

If Christmas appears too commercialized, one can do something about it — make your own Christmas decorations this year instead of buying them.

Making decorations saves money and creates a project for the entire family, according to Herb Stephens, a designer in the art department of R. J. Reynolds Industries, Inc.

"Many people don't want their Christmas decorations to be just like everyone else's," says Stephens. "And one will find it is a challenge to see what can be created from nothing. Anyone can do it if it is kept simple. Don't tackle something too elaborate on the first try."

If one likes natural forms, Stephens suggests making a miniature tree or wreath. Walk through the woods and look for cones, nuts and evergreens. You can use nuts and cones in their natural state, varnish them for additional sheen or spray paint them for a gilded effect. If the greenery has stiff stems, they can be stuck into the styroforam at an angle, or florist pins can be used to attach them. Nuts can be glued on.

Natural materials can be used for the base. Stephens sometimes uses a wheat straw ring to form a wreath base and a cone-shaped shock of broom straw to form a tree. Once the tree is created, anchor it in a pot that has been attractively covered with material and ribbon.

There is an unlimited variety of materials that can be used to form miniature trees. If one wants a permanent decoration, artificial foliage is the best choice. And the tree's decorations are by no means limited to nuts and cones. "Once I found a mesh filter from an old air conditioner that I decided to put to use," says Stephens.

"I cut the mesh in butterfly shapes and glued pipe cleaners on the mesh for the bodies and antennae," he explains.

Angels are easy to make and can be used to top a miniature tree, as a hanging ornament, or as a stand-alone decoration. Stephens shapes cardboard into a large cone for the body and two smaller cones for the arms. Cover the cardboard with scrap material, and trim the costume with bits of ric-rac or beads. Pleated construction paper serves as wings. The head is a styrofoam ball, with bits of construction paper glued on for facial features. A crown of shining hair can be made from bits of the copper scrubbing pads available in grocery stores.

Gift wrap foil can be used to create mobiles or tree ornaments. Cut cardboard in the shape of birds, angels, stars or snowflakes and cover the cardboard with gift wrap. Beads or bits of colored paper can be glued on for additional decorative detail. Hang the designs with ribbon from the Christmas tree or from a rod if a Christmas mobile is desired.

The possibilities of decorations that a family can make are endless. Just by imagination be the guide.

Losing weight

Holidays and the thoughts of resolutions for the New Year prompt many to think of losing weight. The best resolution is to "keep the weight off once you have lost it" says a leading scientist at St. Luke's Hospital in New York. Dr. Sami A. Hashim, who directs nutrition and metabolic research at St. Luke's, says the real difficulty for an individual losing weight is to keep it off once the desired weight level is achieved. A careful daily calorie count, he advises, will help.

Plan puts young in geriatric homes

HOUSTON (AP) — Demeris Lois (Dee) Smith, who oversees 41 Texas nursing homes, is working to prove that older people can live in harmony with the disabled or the troubled young.

The executive vice president for National Living Centers is developing rehabilitation programs within the homes for the developmentally disabled, the blind, the alcoholic, the mental health patient and the mentally retarded.

—In Wharton, Tex., there are 12 disabled children in a nursing home with 75 geriatrics.

—At a Sweeny, Tex., home there are 27 mentally retarded living with 55 geriatrics.

—Young mental health patients and mentally retarded at the Blalock Northshore nursing home in Houston range in ages from 20 to 50.

—In Levelland, Tex., 22 patients under age 65 who require long-term care are living in a nursing home with 49 geriatrics.

"The mental health patient and the mentally retarded have been shunned and considered less than equal," explains Mrs. Smith. "Our goal at the centers is to let the families of these patients see that progress can be made within a geriatric home atmosphere."

Working with state agencies such as Project Child Find, Mrs. Smith located the developmentally disabled children who are now receiving special care in nursing homes. Many are tube feeders who require total skilled care — victims of hit-and-run accidents, severe burns or crippling diseases.

"Until they were moved into the nursing homes, many of these children were getting inadequate care — either by the inexperienced in their own home or in crowded state hospitals," she pointed out.

Working with the State Commission for the Blind, Mrs. Smith hopes to create a special place within one or more of the nursing homes that will encourage the highest level of independent function in the visually impaired. It would be equipped with path guidance, library resources and recreational equipment designed for the blind.

The corporate executive gives equal attention to planning for geriatric patients. Her in-service training programs prepare the staffs for Emphasis Months such as "Patients' Dignity — Residents' Rights," and "Life Is Fragile — Handle with Care" (accident prevention).

"Reality Emphasis Month faces the fact that many geriatrics are confused. We try to get the resident to accept reality: she is 89 years old, her husband is dead and it is the 1970s," Mrs. Smith said.

She has added an audio-visual department for staff training, which has now been expanded into a separate company to distribute the A-V programs on health care.

"We pulled together all our in-service training techniques," she said, "like our Instant Aging Kit. It contains a wig of white hair, wire-rimmed spectacles and theatrical makeup. By the time the nurses and technicians have 'aged' themselves, they have more empathy with their patients.

"We even tie one arm back and let them experience eating with only one good hand from a slippery dish. And with understanding comes patience."

A high school graduate who turned down a college scholarship because she didn't know her career direction, Mrs. Smith did cost accounting for a group of hospitals. In 1967 she was named administrator of a Houston nursing home that had gone bankrupt twice.

She hired a social director for the home and established a new philosophy that was adopted by all the National Living Centers: nursing plus activities equal living.

"Skilled, long-term care is the basic requirement for all the geriatric patients. The activities — arts, crafts, music therapy, exercise classes, field trips — let them really live," she says.

David Smith is one of four vice presidents of the NLC, including three men and one woman, who report to his wife. The two didn't meet on the job.

"David got tired of my devoting so many hours to work; he joined NLC in self-defense," she explained.

The Smiths, who have a housekeeper, are parents of three sons and a daughter ages 2 through 7.

New drug fights Parkinson's disease

BOSTON (AP) — Doctors say they have successfully tested a new drug that fights the crippling symptoms of Parkinson's disease, even in patients who no longer respond to the primary medicine now in use.

One woman in the test reportedly regained the ability to talk, eat and sit up.

"This is a major development," Dr. Abraham Lieberman, who directed the testing, said in an interview. "It represents a new therapeutic approach to the disease," which afflicts about one million Americans.

He said general use of the new treatment — based on a drug called bromocriptine — is probably several years away.

Victims of Parkinson's disease suffer from tremors and muscular rigidity. If able to walk at all, they often move with slow, shuffling steps.

Doctors say the symptoms occur because the brain of persons with the disease does not produce enough of a substance called dopamine, doctors say.

A drug called L-dopa, introduced nine years ago, fights the symptoms for a few years, but eventually it stops working as the brain deteriorates, doctors say.

The new drug helps compensate for the missing dopamine after L-dopa loses its power.

An account of the testing, conducted by Lieberman and other doctors at New York University Medical School, was published in today's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

Lieberman said other work with the drug is being done by Dr. Donald Calne of the National Institutes of Health.

The doctors gave bromocriptine to 14 patients who were no longer doing well on L-dopa. Ten of the patients "showed substantial improvement," the report said.

"Bromocriptine used alone or in combination with levodopa (L-dopa) was found to be very effective as a drug for use in Parkinson's disease."

Ford still undecided about his future

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has not decided what he will do after leaving office and will make no decision before leaving Sunday for a holiday ski-vacation in Colorado, White House spokesman Ron Nessen said Thursday.

Although several different offers have come to Ford, Nessen said, "He has not given any answers and has not made any decisions."

In a joking reference at a White House party for reporters Wednesday night, Ford referred to one offer to teach at the University of Michigan.

But at the White House briefing Thursday, Nessen said, "It was a humorous reference meant as a joke."

The press secretary said the only firm post-inaugural commitment the President has made is to play at the second and third days of the Bing Crosby Pro-Am Golf Tournament in Pebble Beach, Calif., Jan. 21 and 22.

The President and Betty Ford also plan to stop off at the University of Michigan Sunday while enroute to Vail, Colo.

Mrs. Ford is to receive an honorary degree from the university at midday Sunday. Upon arrival in Vail, the Fords will light the ski village's Christmas tree.

Beyond that, Nessen indicated the President plans to spend most of his time skiing during his waning days as president.

The Fords are scheduled to return to Washington Jan. 2.

Although unmarried, area woman starts her own family

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

When she was 26, Joanne Parham took stock of her life and concluded that her prospects for getting married were quite dim.

Not that she was unattractive — far from it with her tall slim figure, her interests, her stylish hair and her large dimples. Nor was she antisocial, or a man hater, or anything like that. It's just, she explained, that there didn't seem to be anyone around with whom she wanted to share a life time.

And yet, she had wanted a baby for so long. She knew that for her the natural way was out, under the circumstances. So she contacted the Los Angeles County Department of Adoptions.

It took her two years to convince the adoption agency that she could provide a good home without a father around to Cathy, a 2½-year-old bundle of motion.

At the time, she was working as a physical therapist in Los Angeles, putting in long hours, and she knew an infant would need a lot more of her time. So she got a better job at Casa Colina in Pomona and bought a house in Walnut.

Time passed and Cathy thrived under Miss Parham's care. But in time she became lonely. Wouldn't it be nice, Miss Parham thought, if Cathy had a companion, a boy?

But the adoption agency was skeptical. After all, they reasoned, one child was tough enough to raise without a father, but two? Howcould a single woman provide all the necessities that are needed at home by very young children, especially if the mother had to work all day?

With baby sitters to hire and all that, wouldn't the child be better off in a foster home?

But the social workers didn't say no. They had come to know Miss Parham through Cathy and were impressed with the results.

Meanwhile, Miss Parham returned to college, got her teaching credential and got a job in the Pomona Unified School District teaching the orthopedically handicapped. This gave her more time at home.

She reapplied to the Department of Adoptions, and finally succeeded in getting Jon, a freckled blond haired 6-year-old, assigned to her for a one-year probationary period. Jon had spent his first half dozen years in four foster homes and the agency was anxiously watching his progress.

"He was a problem at first," Miss Parham recalls. "He had decided in his young mind that he was no good, that nobody wanted him. It's been a long pull."

Permanent custody by Miss Parham was approved by the Los Angeles County District Court Friday, along with the adoption of 39 other children throughout the county.

"Just in time for the holidays," she says pleased. "The perfect Christmas gift."

Today, Jon — the "h" has been dropped to make him a little different from all the other Johns — is a model student in the school of the First Baptist Church in Pomona which both he and Cathy attend.

Miss Parham admits that bringing up her children without a father is not an easy matter.

"Sure, I would like to get married," she nods. "If I could find a guy who is compatible, who would love the children, I'd do it in a minute."

But she says if the prospects were dim when she was 26, they are dimmer at 34.

She says the children get lots of contact with male figures because she has several brothers and nephews all living in the area.

The biggest doubters come from the ranks of strangers. But Miss Parham has learned to cope with that.

SINGLE MOTHER

Being single apparently was no barrier to motherhood for Joanne Parham of Walnut, a teacher with the Pomona Unified School District. Thanks to the cooperation of the Los Angeles County Bureau of Adoptions, she is now the mother of Jon, 7, and Cathy, 8.

Typically, when she and her children attend an event, someone asks about the father.

"They don't have a father," Miss Parham says.

"Oh, I'm so sorry," comes the probe. "You are a widow?"

"No, I've never been married."

Then, with a mischievous smile, Miss Parham moves on.

$138 million contract won by area plant

Lockheed Aircraft Service Co. (LAS), Ontario, Thursday announced it has been awarded a U.S. Air Force contract of $138 million over a three-year period to provide a logistics program to the Imperial Iranian Air Force (IIAF).

The program, won by Lockheed after an intensive competitive evaluation, calls for LAS to assist the IIAF logistics organization by providing the necessary technological assistance and training.

"The government of Iran and the IIAF, in acquiring new defense systems, have for many years largely depended upon the U.S. to fulfill their requirements," said Dennis C. Shea, vice president of LAS Iranian operations.

"With the growth of its air force in terms of numbers and types of aircraft, and increased logistics needs, Iran turned to the U.S. Air Force for guidance in developing and implementing a master plan to increase its logistics capability."

Areas included in the contract include logistics management and planning, purchasing and data automation systems, supply and maintenance depot systems for aircraft, engines, missiles, electronics, vehicles and ground support equipment, as well as the training of Iranian personnel.

For the past 35 years, LAS has specialized in overseas management, responding to requests from developing nations to establish aircraft support and logistics organizations.

Clark receives life in prison

Cleveland Lyle Clark, 23-year-old man convicted recently of first-degree murder in the shotgun slaying March 8 of a Pomona bartender, has been sentenced to state prison for life.

Clark, who lived at 820 E. Grand Ave., Pomona, was sentenced by Pomona Superior Court Judge Howard D. McClain. He will be eligible for parole in seven years.

Prior to his sentencing, Clark was found to have been sane at the time he killed William Hyland, 30, who was shot down behind the bar at the Belinda Terrace, 480 Pomona Mall West. That issue was decided by the same jury which ruled him guilty of murder.

Wiggins faces arraignment, another suspect surrenders

Donald G. Wiggins, 41, Ontario, charged with secretly stockpiling tons of illegal munitions, was scheduled for arraignment today in the West Valley Municipal Court, and a Wrightwood gunshop owner has surrendered in Victorville.

Michael Stringer, owner of property in Wrightwood where additional caches of illegal explosives and arms were found, surrendered to San Bernardino County deputies Thursday.

He had been sought since Tuesday when investigators discovered a ton of weaponry in a garage bunker at his Wrightwood cabin.

"There doesn't appear to be anyone else involved" in the arms stockpile discoveries, according to Lt. Bill Abernathie of the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department.

Authorities said they had no evidence that links Stringer's arsenal with Wiggins', and nothing to indicate his stockpile was intended for use by any political group.

Wiggins, a Pomona foundry owner, was freed on $150,000 bail after his arrest last Thursday. His half-brother, Arthur M. Methe Jr., 20, was freed early Thursday on a promise to appear in court to face similar charges.

Methe's father, Arthur Methe, 55, also was arrested, but collapsed and died Wednesday of a heart attack outside Ontario police headquarters.

Mrs. Edna Methe, 64, mother of Wiggins, was arrested then released on her promise to appear in court on related charges.

AL MC COMBS

Chino board president to seek two-year term

Chino school board president Al McCombs has announced his intention to seek election to a two-year board term on March 8.

McCombs, who is presently serving out his second four-year term, did not explain why he decided to seek only a two-year term.

The four-year seats of McCombs and Augustine Tapia are up for grabs in the March election, along with the two years remaining in the term of resigned trustee Roy Ward. Paul Peterson was appointed to fill Ward's seat last summer, but has the option of running for a two-year or four-year term.

McCombs said his decision to run was "not an easy one." He cited controversy in the district as an upsetting factor in serving on the board.

"The board can't come to common goals together and I've been discouraged by this.

"There has been constant sniping by people with a negative attitude toward the district."

However, McCombs noted the district is a fine one and "has much to be proud of. I have decided to stick with it a little longer."

McCombs is publisher of the Chino Champion newspaper and was first elected to the board in April, 1969.

Acting out of principle

Unable to get any satisfaction from the telephone companies, a number of women who want their names listed in the telephone book have taken their case to the feds. They have been joined by the women's movement, including the National Organization of Women and Women's Equity Action League.

The plaintiffs have filed a petition with the Federal Communications Commission asking the FCC to order telephone companies to grant, upon request, separate free listings for both adult members of a household.

The time-honored practice has been to give only one free listing for each telephone, usually in the husband's name. (The listing is not "free," of course, but is part of the subscription charge.)

It is not just a matter of sexual equality. The women's organizations complain, no doubt with much justification, that they are forced to spend much unnecessary time, effort and money trying to locate women whose names aren't in the book. Unless they know the husband's name, it can be impossible.

The companies claim that if they had to give every subscriber who wanted one a second listing, the cost of producing directories would be greatly increased. Large or small, this cost would naturally be spread around to every other subscriber.

There's an extremely simple solution to the problem: The telephone company will be glad to give you as many extra listings as you want — if you pay for them. The charge ranges from 27 cents a month in New Jersey to $1 a month in New York.

Even the latter would seem to be a modest enough amount for any woman who, for ego satisfaction or the convenience of people trying to locate her or for professional reasons, feels she needs her own listing.

But obviously, it's not the money; it's the principle of the thing. And as we know from history, most of the world's troubles have been caused by people acting out of principle, and dragging everybody else willy-nilly along with them.

Your hunches are wanted

Do you have a hunch, a premonition, a vision about where an earthquake is going to strike, or maybe just uncanny luck at making guesses? The U.S. Geological Survey would like to hear about it.

It is not that the survey places much credence in clairvoyance. But as part of an effort to separate fact from fallacies about earthquake predictions, it has begun keeping score on all predictions brought to its attention.

As Roger N. Hunter, a geophysicist at the USGS earthquake center in Denver explains:

"While scientists are only beginning to solve the problem, others have been claiming to be able to predict earthquakes since time immemorial. Someone has predicted a great California earthquake nearly every year; sooner or later one of these predictions will be right. Because wrong predictions tend to be forgotten, the result of a correct prediction could be instant fame and a great deal of harmful public credulity."

The best antidote to fictional claims, he says, is a good dose of fact, but the facts will be lacking unless they are accumulated.

One thing the survey will not consider is a prediction made known after an earthquake happens. The seismicity of an area — that is, its proneness to earthquakes — will also be taken into account by its computer in rating a prediction. Earthquakes are so common in California, for example, that any given day will probably have one, whereas Florida has so few that the odds are very much against a chance date being correct.

Interested parties are invited to participate in the program by sending their predictions by letter to the attention of Mr. Hunter, U.S. Geological Survey, National Earthquake Information Service, Mail Stop 968, Box 25046, Denver Federal Center, Denver, CO 80225.

Think on these things

It is very easy to judge by what we see and believe it is exactly the way it appears to be. We just know beyond the slightest doubt that some situation is precisely the way we have it analyzed — then suddenly, something shows our judgment was faulty. What we thought we saw was something entirely different, and what fools we are to think we can make snap judgments simply by what our eyes tell us.

It is never wise to judge the actions of others . . . for frequently there are good reasons that we know nothing about . . . and what someone else must do should not overly concern us . . . even when we feel it our duty to interpret . . . for the time always comes when our own actions invite someone else to judge us . . . and how sad when the tables are turned!

Property tax reform

Dear Editor:

Once again the time for property tax payments has arrived with no relief or reform despite the campaign promises of every politician elected in the last four years.

It has become all too obvious that the only way homeowners will ever get any relief is to take matters into their own hands.

Thousands are doing just that by signing petitions in support of placing on the California ballot an initiative that would limit property taxes to one per cent of the property's market value.

That would mean the owner of a $30,000 home would pay no more than $300 per year, a $40,000 homeowner $400 and so on.

It's the only way to end the outrage of senior citizens being forced to leave the homes they love simply because they are no longer working. And it would also let thousands of young people buy homes they cannot now afford.

The initiative is being sponsored by United Organizations of Taxpayers, Howard Jarvis chairman, at 6431 W. 5th St., Los Angeles.

Any property owner who is sick and tired of listening to promises of "tax reform" should act now by obtaining copies of the Jarvis petition and gathering the names of neighbors and friends.

We'll never have property tax reform any other way!

Will Congress challenge Nix?

WASHINGTON — At age 71, Rep. Robert N.C. Nix, D.-Pa., is beginning to run down. The years have slowed his pace; his speech is hesitating. Yet he is a decent old gentleman who, in his plodding way, has tried to do right by his Philadelphia constituents.

Now, after 18 years in the House, he is in line to take over the chairmanship of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee. This would give him an important role in helping President-elect Jimmy Carter reorganize the federal government.

His colleagues in Congress, therefore, are reluctant to oppose Nix. Yet they have come to us sadly with evidence that he isn't qualified for the chairmanship. They say he has a drinking problem, which has reduced his effectiveness.

Nix denied the accusation in a painful interview with our associates, Gary Cohn and Howie Kurtz. The bald, bespectacled, old congressman insisted that he didn't drink any liquor at all. And the suggestion that he is slowing down, he said, was "absurd."

"I've never had any problem with alcohol in my life," he said. "I never frequent any drinking places. I work all day and sleep all night." He denied that he drinks in his office. "No, no, never," he said.

Yet a number of witnesses have given us a different story. They have seen him drunk on many occasions. He starts drinking, they say, in the afternoons, behind the thick oaken door of his office.

For these private snorts, he keeps a bottle of Seagram's Seven Crown in his desk. He often spends the afternoons, say witnesses, sipping whiskey and puffing on cigars.

Callers and constituents may be held off indefinitely with stories of high-level meetings. Sometimes he drops off into an alcoholic sleep. Other times, according to the witnesses, he emerges with liquor on his breath. They report that he showed up drunk once at a committee meeting. On an official visit to Mexico awhile back, they recall, he was frequently intoxicated in public.

Nix denied that he got drunk on the Mexico trip. "I wouldn't drink vodka if I wanted something to drink," he added unaccountably. "I'd drink bourbon."

Footnote: Under the seniority system, Nix is eligible for the Civil Service Committee chairmanship because top-ranking Rep. Morris Udall, D.-Ariz., is leaving to take the vacant chairmanship of the Interior Committee. Rep. James Hanley, D.-N.Y., next in line behind Nix, hasn't decided whether to challenge him. But many congressmen reluctantly feel that Nix should be pushed aside.

RARE BIRD: S. Dillon Ripley, director of the Smithsonian Institution, is a distinguished ornithologist who pursues rare birds around the world in high style.

In 1970, he expropriated a grant intended for other purposes to finance a yacht trip on the Mediterranean in quest of the rare Audouin Gull. He brought along some ritzy friends who joined in the bird watching, sun bathing and dining on Palaiokastritsa lobster.

Again in 1974, a bird chase took him to the far corners of the globe for 28 weeks at a cost to the Smithsonian of at least $15,000.

When he isn't roaming after birds, Ripley writes about them. Last month, for instance, he wrote a rave review for the Smithsonian magazine about a new book, called "A Guide to the Birds of Panama" by Robert Ridgely. "This is a valuable volume," Ripley attested, "that serious bird watchers concerned with neotropical birds can hardly do without."

He neglected to mention a few pertinent facts: (1) that he is president of the International Council for Bird Preservation, which sponsored the book; (2) that he is also chairman of the World Wildlife Fund, which has contributed heavily to the book's sponsor, and (3) that the author of the book is his own son-in-law.

The elegant, efficient Ripley assured us loftily that it was no conflict for him to praise such a book in the pages of the Smithsonian magazine. He invited us to go ahead and accuse him of a conflict. "It will roll off my back," he said, "like water off a duck."

Footnote: Young Ridgely was selected to write the book before he married Ripley's daughter in 1972. He was in Peru where he couldn't be reached for comment. But in the past, he has said that he will take no royalties from the book.

DIPLOMATC DIGEST: The British have been sending quiet signals to President-elect Jimmy Carter. They are worried about the Soviet military build-up in Europe, where the best Russian divisions are concentrated. If the United States should waver at all in its support of NATO, the British have warned, the other NATO countries would reduce their support and the alliance would be jeopardized.

Diplomatic undercurrents are stirring between the United States and Vietnam. Both former enemies are interested in ending the Vietnam nightmare and establishing diplomatic relations. Our sources predict that the progress will be slow but that an accommodation eventually will be reached.

What people say

"It doesn't look nice. And people over there say, 'It's not the way it used to be.' But I think there is a growing appreciation of how we were forced to take firm action to preserve law and order in the face of forces of anarchy."

Waste slows our growth

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — There is a considerable body of evidence which suggests that a slackening in the American industrial growth rate results in a sharpening of inflation over the long pull.

Other studies indicate that, as time goes on, intensified inflation leads to such serious stresses in the economy that major unemployment becomes inevitable.

It is also clear the growth in productivity becomes most difficult when the men who manage industry do not have the will or the capital to invest major sums in improved equipment, which could make it possible for workers to produce more.

Will is a nebulous quality, difficult to calculate. The availability of capital is easier to measure. When Congress, the bureaucracy or the president divert large sums which are inefficiently used or expended on marginally-useful projects, those funds are not available for private investment. We all suffer.

Take federal subsidies, which, in the aggregate, siphon off billions of dollars. Some of these funds go for quite worthwhile purposes, of course. But much of this free money goes down the drain.

A news report based on government in-house studies notes that some communities, enthused by the availability of federal gifts, have been building sewage disposal plants and systems of a size sufficient to handle populations predicted far in the future. Others are reportedly putting in twice the capacity needed per household, so eager are they for the government largess.

Economist Edward Renshaw, of the State University of New York, in Albany, notes that this overgenerous subsidizing has also encouraged suburban sprawl which, he suggests, increases local city operating costs.

Renshaw also points out that the longtime congressional practice of exempting from federal income taxes any interest income earned on municipal bonds encourages the over-expansion of public facilities, relative to private investment.

Meanwhile, discussing federal assistance for municipal transportation, a Brookings Institution study charges that "if the federal government is paying two-thirds of the cost of new equipment, but nothing toward repair and maintenance, local transit offices will naturally replace buses very quickly, long before they should be scrapped. The total cost of providing mass transit will rise sharply, and a large part of the subsidy will serve not to benefit riders but to cover the costs of inefficient decisions."

Witness, too, that Congress over the years has mangled the writing of the Social Security laws so thoroughly that employers are effectively discouraged from hiring older workers, students, part-time employees and the disadvantaged.

The common thread which runs through the above examples is waste, either of money or of men and women. Each case too shows how the federal government sops up capital or diverts manpower which might otherwise be used to make us more productive.

It is precisely this shortage of capital, and the lack of will to invest, which today is holding back the modernization and expansion of industry and the employment of millions more men and women. If employed, they would, in turn, spark a boom in those businesses which depend on consumer spending.

It is clear that while the power of the federal government to effectively bolster the economy is marginal it can do a great deal of harm.

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

Now that the bleeding heart legal lights in this state have ruled that the death penalty for convicted criminals is unconstitutional, one murderer on death row is really going to luck out.

He will get the $100,000 a publisher is paying for his life story instead of having the payments go to his family. — And now that they have done the humane, the merciful, the compassionate, the Christian thing by our murderers, just how, I wonder, do those legal lights plan to bring back to life the 20,510 persons murdered in the U.S. last year?

Just what do they have in mind for the families of those murder victims? — Well, you know the answer to that as well as I do. Bleeding hearts are seldom interested in innocent victims. Which is why more and more people throughout this nation are firmly convinced justice is not only blind but dumb as well.

Don't feel too sorry for those candidates for political office who didn't quite make the grade in the recent general election. They should still be able to utilize their special abilities to good financial advantage.

During the pre-election campaigning, it was time and again evident that most of them, to state it in a refined manner, were full of fertilizer. So now what they should do is become plant psychiatrists and open up offices complete with couches for potted plants. Think what just sitting there listening to a plant psychiatrist talk could do for a drooping daffodil or a delicate daisy.

Sacramento scene

Population and building

By EARL G. WATERS

Although unemployment in California remains high, figures compiled by Security Pacific Bank indicate expanding activity in the construction industry. The bank reported that building reached a billion dollar pace in October and remarked that this was the third time in the state's history that permit valuations topped $1 billion in a single month. The other two occasions were both in 1976, the months of July and August.

While these record dollar figures obviously are in part attributable to inflation, the bank said they represent 256,000 new home units in October of which 170,500 were for single family dwellings. This upsurge in single dwellings, it stated, was a new all time high surpassing the peak homebuilding activities of the early 1960's. The previous month 234,800 dwelling units were undertaken, the highest since January of 1973.

The apparent vitality of the homebuilding industry in the face of universal complaints of exorbitant taxation of homes would appear to cast some doubts on the validity of the property owner criticisms of tax rates. Also it gives room to skepticism of the contentions that inflated property values are precluding home ownership.

Actually the explanation of the building "boom" may be simply that despite high costs and high taxation, people must have shelter even though it means they must pay an inordinate share of their earnings for it. And the spreading of mortgages over longer periods make it possible for people to move into homes even though they may never be fully paid off. The further realism is that once a home is purchased, continued inflation will make the payments progressively easier.

Another factor influencing construction is the state's continued population growth by reason of migration.

Experiencing a period of almost zero growth during the years 1970 through 1972, the lure of the golden state has been reasserting itself with nearly 200,000 persons moving in during each of the past two years.

According to the Population Research Unit of the Department of Finance, which over the years has reported with remarkable accuracy, the state has grown by 1.5 million since 1970.

While the birth rate has declined since 1970 it rose in 1976 slightly over 1975 and the total births during those years have been double the death rate which has climbed minutely in that period. Growth for those years is accountable to nearly 600,000 migrants and the balance to the differences between birth and death rates.

Growth, unlike post war years when it was predominantly in the southern part of the state, is now equally divided between north and south. The smaller counties, like Alpine which experienced a 60 per cent increase, have been gaining the most, but not all of them. Colusa County had less than one-third of one per cent increase in the six years.

Both Los Angeles and San Francisco counties have had population declines. Los Angeles showed a small recovery this past year but San Francisco continues downward. One third of the total state increase occurred in two counties, Orange and San Diego and despite the "no-growth" efforts of the city of Sonoma, that county has grown by 25 per cent in the six year period.

The overall state growth figures at about 5.25 per cent. Some northern counties like Placer have exceeded 22 per cent. Sacramento has grown 10.4 per cent.

Paint fumes hurt horses

DEAR DR. MILLER: Come Spring, we're going to be putting up new fencing and painting the barn. Can we leave the horses in part of the barn while we're painting the rest of it? There's plenty of air in there, so will the fumes bother them? — M.F.

DEAR M.F.: Yes, the fumes could be toxic even though there's plenty of ventilation. Fix the fences first so you can turn the horses out for as long as there are any solvent or paint odors in the barn.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm apprehensive about taking my German shepherd into her first show because people say her light nails will count against her. Everyone agrees she is a beautiful German shepherd, and no one can find anything else wrong with her. Her pedigree has hardly anything but champions on it. Should I just go ahead and show her and hope for the best? — H.K.

DEAR H.K.: What do you have to lose? If she's good enough, she should rack up her points even with light nails. A judge would have to be a nitpicking nail-picker to disreagrd an otherwise excellent dog (if indeed she is) because of poorly pigmented nails.

DEAR DR. MILLER: One thing I haven't seen you warn people about is the holly berries that are used for Christmas decorations. They can kill a lot of dogs because they're so poisonous, if nobody tells people about it. Don't you think you should? — T.S.

DEAR T.S.: Yes, holly berries have poisonous properties, as do many other plant portions used for decorative purposes. It's prudent, therefore, not to allow plants to be consumed by pets. That way, you're automatically excluding the numerous poisonous varieties. Fortunately for pets with careless or unthinking owners, many of these poison plant parts have a built-in safety factor — they are strongly emetic. Holly berries are one of these. The pooch partaking of them will invariably vomit (with vigor) and thus tend to limit absorption of the poison. Hence, holly berries are unlikely to do in a dog unfortunate enough to get hold of them.

FOR THE BIRDS?

. . . Why not? Whether you hang various edibles on an outside tree for the birds or simply provide a few extra goodies at their accustomed feeding station, don't forget them. Keep on giving, too. Your continued donations can assure that your feathered friends will celebrate not only the present holidays but a still-far-away Springtime as well.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your generous nature is easily imposed upon today. One who is a taker is aware of this and will use it to her advantage.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your opinions are not as popular as you lead yourself to believe today. Be careful whom you try to foist them upon.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be realistic regarding the value of services for others today. You'll offend them if your price tag is too inflated.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll feel more at ease socially today being with a small, cozy group. Pass up noisy gatherings.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) People who try to impress you with their importance will turn you off today. Let them play their big shot role for someone else.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your focus on details obliterates the big picture today. Stand back a bit so you can take in the entire view.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'd be wise not to try to keep up with the high rollers today. Extravagant companions are the types you're better off without.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't let someone whose judgment is questionable make any important decisions for you today. Regrets will be avoided if you call your own shots.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There is opportunity around you today, but you may not make the most of it because of your attitude. Failure to take advantage of what's offered is your loss.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Usually you're a self-disciplined person, but today you have strong tendencies to overindulge. Don't try to pack all your good living into one experience.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Let others sing your praises today instead of doing it yourself. Bragging is not the way to win admirers.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's marvelous to be optimistic, provided your views are based upon a realistic premise. However, today your rose-colored outlook may not be anchored in practicality.

Ann Landers

Warning for teenage drinkers

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing this letter in the hope that one potential teenage alcoholic will see the light before it is too late.

Two years ago I was a carefree, intelligent high-school student. As a matter of fact, I was near the top of my class. Then one day a close friend introduced me to beer. I thought it was great. After three beers I was high as a kite. A few months later, three beers wasn't enough. I turned to bigger and better things. First it was Harvey Walbangers and Navy Grog. Then I turned to straight vodka and rum. Before long I was sneaking liquor from my parents cabinet.

Now I'm 19 years old and sitting in my college dorm room with a bottle of gin. I just found out I am being expelled because of a little hell-raising I did last weekend when I was bombed. (Ruined some school property and totaled a friend's car.)

I hope a few teenagers who read this will realize that drinking is dumb. Quit NOW. — Messed Up

Dear Friend: So you blew it. But you're only 19 and there's a lifetime ahead if you really want to straighten up and fly right.

Look in the phone book under Alcoholics Anonymous. Give them a call and they'll send someone your age to talk to you about your problem. The person they send was probably in your shoes a few months ago. It could be the most important phone call you will ever make in your entire life. Do it today.

Dear Ann: You can see by the stationery that this letter is for real. Maybe the problem should be brought to the attention of the president of the bank, but as a lowly employee I haven't got the guts. Will you speak for us?

I'm sitting here with a miserable headache. Why? Because of the piped-in music that plays eight hours a day. I love my job but this continuous racket gets on my nerves.

I've discussed this with several employes. Everyone hates it. But the man in charge of our department likes the music and that's that.

I'm not old or sick or nervous — but I WILL be before long. Any ideas? — Head Busting

Dear Head: How many signatures can you get from fellow employes who want the music stopped?

If you can gather a large number, present them to the vice president in charge of personnel. I'll bet you'll get peace and quiet before long.

Dear Ann: My husband and I have saved for six years to take this cruise. We don't want to look like yokels. Can you give us some suggestions on how to tip — and whom? Is it polite to talk to strangers? Is it OK to wear a sport shirt (no tie) to dinner?

We don't want to look like we've never been on a cruise before. Help — A And B

Dear A and B: The travel bureau or ticket office that sold you the transportation has loads of leaflets with answers to all your questions.

If you should encounter a situation not covered in the leaflets, remember common sense and consideration for others are always in good taste. And don't worry about this being your first cruise. It will probably be the first one for 90 per cent of the people aboard the ship. Bon voyage!

Bridge column lacks finesse

Elsewhere in this newspaper, the bridge aficionado will find, tucked away amid ads for used cars and mail-order teeth, a column called "Bridge by Jacobys," by Oswald Jacoby and his son, Jim, winners of the 1965 Vanderbilt Cup.

From time to time the father-son team shapes its column in roughly dramatic form, presumably to liven things up a bit. It doesn't. The bridge expertise cannot be faulted (by me), but the little playlets wouldn't last an hour on Broadway. The cast of characters is limited, the characterizations sterile, the story lacking in romantic interest (sex), violence, or any more suspense than whether the queen finesse works.

"What do you think is the principal characteristic of people who qualify for the title, Unlucky Expert?" asks Pop, as the curtain rises on a recent one-act bomb. This maladroit opening would have critics headed for the exits before their wives had time to kick off their shoes.

"It is obscure defense," replies Jimmy boy. "Every time you give your partner a chance to make a mistake, he may take advantage of the opportunity."

Young James, you see, is one of these know-it-all whippersnappers so prevalent in my ho — in our society today. Does he say, with proper filial deference, "Gee, Dad, I don't know. What IS the principal characteristic of people who qualify for the title, Unlucky Expert?" No — he has the answer down pat and fires it off, taking the old man by surprise.

Even here the play is not yet lost. The potential conflict between the aging champion and his upstart son, the clash of personalities, the possible Oedipus overtones all have great possibilities.

Alas, Oswald is too immersed in his endplays and two no-trumps to realize the theatrical opportunities that are passing him by, and he proceeds (rather grumpily, I presume, at suddenly finding himself playing straight man to his son) to maunder on about "West opened with the diamond jack, dummy played low, and East dropped the deuce, etc." Even with music by Rodgers and Hammerstein, the charade wouldn't survive opening night.

As a veteran theatergoer, I would like to pass on to Oswald and Jim a few tips on how to make a real swinger out of this static dialogue.

The curtain rises to reveal several bridge tables in a plush penthouse suite in New York (night skyline visible through French doors, up center). A cute French maid is dusting the empty room. The phone rings.

"Allo? Allo? Oui, zees is Fifi, la bonne chez Oswald and James Jacoby, bridge experts. Comment? No, ce soir is le soir de la big grudge match between les Jacobys et les Culbertsons. They have bet $1 million on ze contest to determine ze principal characteristic of people who qualify for ze title, Unlucky Expert. Au revoir."

See? Now you have the — er, stage set, you might say — for a really suspense-filled drama. The characters now enter — Jacobys in impeccable evening dress, a swarthy Hindu in a turban, a mysterious veiled lady who caresses Jim's cheek as she passes, a retired British colonel who glares hotly at Jim, an Oriental servant who is busy dropping powders into highball glasses.

Well, you take it from there. Someone will notice that one of the matching pistols has vanished from its mounting above the fireplace. Fifi will be found cold-conked in the ladies lounge, and two aces of diamonds will turn up at Table 2. Somewhere along the line, all the lights will go out and screams will be heard. You can also work in some State Department microfilms, the lost Kohinoor Ruby, some X-rated scuffling in the coat closet, and whatever else comes your way.

Let's get with it, Oswald and Jim. Bridge columns CAN be entertaining.

Hereditary anemias discussed

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently my daughter was sick, and I advised her to get a blood test to see if she had mononucleosis. Another daughter needed a blood test for college and a third daughter for her job. All three came back with anemia. Further investigation shows they have "traits of Mediterranean anemia." No where can I find any information about this. I was told by a nurse that iron is no good for such cases.

Apparently this is passed on by parents, but what does the future hold for my children? I also have three other children. Are they also affected?

DEAR READER — The age of the discovery of the anemia and the manner in which it was discovered plus the diagnostic term used suggests to me that it is not a significant problem for your daughters.

Terminology varies but it is likely that your children have thalessemia minor, which is usually asymptomatic and is completely compatible with a long life.

The disorder is an inherited defect in hemoglobin formation. And it is true that excess iron will not help. Many patients with this disorder have a long history of taking iron and still having an anemia. However, I should point out that these patients have the same needs for iron as normal persons. During the childbearing years they can have an iron deficiency the same as anyone else who loses blood regularly and does not adequately replace it with dietary iron. During the menstruating years women need more iron.

The disorder is called Mediterranean anemia because it was first noted frequently in people from that part of the world. As many as 20 per cent of some Italian families had blood tests revealing the disorder.

I think it would be a good idea to have all of your children checked to see if they have the same mild form of disorder. If so none will probably have any serious consequences from it.

To give you more information on how anemias occur and how they affect people I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-3 Understanding the Anemias. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long stamped self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My doctor tells me that I have fibroid tumors of the uterus. He says there is no treatment for them. He recommends a hysterectomy if the condition gets worse. Is there any known treatment for these tumors other than surgery?

DEAR READER — Fibroids (leiomyoma) of the uterus are very common. They are benign growths of fiberous tissue, and their location and size determine how much trouble they will cause.

Small ones in some locations cause frequent bleeding. Larger ones may cause pressure symptoms. Moderate sized ones may cause no symptoms at all.

They may regress in size after the menopause. But this is not always the case. The presence of female hormones seems to maintain them or stimulate their growth.

Certainly if they are causing problems in a woman who does not plan to have any more children, and particularly if there is any other disease of the uterus, a hysterectomy is indicated. There is no medical treatment that can make them vanish or help you other than the loss of your normal female hormone production and that is not a very satisfactory solution.

Truth can set you free, too!

A prince was invited to visit the king of a neighboring country. In honor of his visit the king announced to his guest: "I will let you take any one prisoner from our dungeons and release him."

So the distinguished visitor went down to the dungeon and began talking with the criminals. "Why are you here?" he asked. And one-by-one each prisoner claimed to be innocent.

He came to the last prisoner and asked, "Why are you here?" And the man said, "Because I deserve it. I probably deserve even more than I'm getting." The prince said, "It's a pity that one bad person like you is in prison with all these innocent people! I think we'd better take you out of here!"

The truth set this prisoner free from his bondage. The truth can set you free too!

Motion pictures made in India

How many motion pictures have you seen that were made by East Indians in India? Not many, if any, I'll warrant. So it's noteworthy, it is not, that India has the third largest motion picture industry in the world? Right behind Japan and the United States.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

Q. "Where was the world's first discovery of diamonds? And where are those diamonds now?"

A. Said stones are in the eyes of a Greek goddess statue currently on display at the British Museum. They date back to about 100 B.C. But where that sculptor got them is a mystery.

Q. "You said people have only been using paper bags for 107 years. How did they carry groceries home from the store before then?"

A. Either they brought their own containers, or the clerks made cornucopias out of paper to hold such stuff as meal, beans, whatever.

Q. "How thick is the ice over the ocean at the North Pole?"

A. From seven to 10 feet.

LOVE AND WAR

Our Love and War man has noted a curious difference in the ways that single girls and bachelors pick their romantic partners. The girl, he says, might have a dozen boyfriends, non of whom seems to be like another or anything like the sort of fellow she eventually winds up marrying. But the young bachelor is inclined to select all his ladyfriends, including finally his wife, for their similar qualities.

Quick, which two U.S. presidents each had a surname containing only four letters? Am surprised to learn that when this query was put to a sizable sampling of high school students, fewer than 40 per cent swiftly replied, Polk and Taft.

It's another interesting fact of nature that a squirrel can climb a tree faster than it can run on level ground.

Briton feels troop cuts might give Russians war ideas

LONDON (AP) — British defense chiefs were dismayed Thursday by yet another round of spending cuts to hit this once-great military power, and one defense expert said further troop cuts in Europe could encourage the Soviets to start a war.

The Labor government, struggling to bolster the nation's tottering economy, announced Britain's eighth defense cut in 10 years Wednesday despite last-minute appeals from service chiefs and Defense Secretary Fred Mulley.

The cabinet chopped $495 million from military spending over the next two years. After the cuts, this year's defense budget will be $9 billion.

Because of inflation, this sum provides an army, navy and air force 60 per cent smaller than during the Korean War in 1952.

The cuts were part of a two-year austerity program under which Britain slashed $4.2 billion in public spending to meet requirements of the International Monetary Fund for a $3.9 billion loan.

Britain's armed forces are down to 338,000 men. The entire British Army numbers 173,000 troops, less than the 189,000 Americans stationed in West Germany. Senior officers say all three services are undermanned and underequipped, and the latest cuts imperil Britain's commitment to the North Atlantic alliance (NATO) to station 55,000 troops in Germany, where there are also 345,000 German and 60,000 French soldiers.

"Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, provoked widespread resentment among servicemen here with his recent comment that Britain's forces were "pathetic."

Spokesmen for the three services say Britain's fighting forces are all exceptionally well-trained professionals with modern weapons that make Britain the third strongest nuclear military power behind the United States and the Soviet Union.

But one expert, 61-year-old army veteran Brigadier Kenneth Hunt, said he had "some sympathy with Brown. Any American general is obviously disturbed when he sees the way British forces are contracting.

"It doesn't seem much, a cut of 50 million pounds here, a cut of 100 there. But the risk is enormous," he said. "Because the defense level of Western Europe is high, the Soviet Union is deterred. The danger is that the level slowly lowers. If anyone else caught the British 'bug,' the Soviets might risk a war. And you only find out what a defense cut really means when the shooting starts."

Almanac

Today is Friday, Dec. 17, the 352nd day of 1976. There are 14 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1903, Orville and Wilbur Wright made the first successful airplane flight in history, soaring over sand dunes near Kitty Hawk, N.C.

On this date —

In 1538, Pope Paul III excommunicated King Henry VIII of England.

In 1718, England declared war on Spain.

In 1830, the South American liberator Simon Bolivar died in Colombia.

In 1914, Britain proclaimed a protectorate over Egypt.

In 1919, a U.S. arsenal at Picatinny, N.J., blew up, causing damage estimated at $1 million.

In 1939, during World War II, the crew of the German pocket battleship Graf Spee scuttled the ship off Uruguay rather than let it fall into the hands of the British.

Ten years ago: The Pentagon said U.S. warplanes were subjected to one of the heaviest surface-to-air missile attacks of the Vietnam War during recent raids on Hanoi.

Five years ago: India and Pakistan ended a two-week war.

One year ago: Lynette Fromme was sentenced in Federal court in Sacramento, Calif., to life imprisonment for attempting to kill President Ford in Sacramento on Sept. 5.

Today's birthdays: Boston conductor Arthur Fiedler is 82. Writer Erskine Caldwell is 73.

Thought for today: Life's too short for chess. — Lord Byron, English poet, 1788-1824.

Bicentenial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the American Continental Congress, which had moved from Philadelphia to Baltimore, was informed that British troops were in New Jersey in Morrestown and Haddonfield, across the Delaware a few miles from Philadelphia.

For many of us, the day begins with a tasty bowl of cereal.

Ready-to-eat breakfast cereals are made by rolling, shredding, toasting and puffing such cereal grains as oats, wheat, corn and rice.

To make cornflakes, for instance, the cerealmaker begins by grinding corn kernels into several pieces called grits.

These are flavored and cooked in giant steel cookers, then rolled between big rollers that flatten each grit into a single thin flake. The flakes are then toasted to make them crunchy and tender.

Puffed wheat is made by heating wheat kernels in special ovens. When the kernels are just hot enough, they are suddenly cooled. This cause them to expand quickly or puff up, into a light crunchy cereal.

Shredded cereals are made by forcing whole, cooked grains through slotted rollers that form them into threadlike strands, which are formed into biscuits and toasted.

Garden gifts boon to Yuletide shoppers

With the coming of the Yuletide season, the selection of gifts for family and friends challenges us once again. Gardeners with gardening friends and relatives often choose to remember Christmas with gifts of tools, planting supplies or flowers. Christmas is also a great time to introduce a friend to the fun and rewarding hobby of indoor gardening.

One way to be sure and please anyone, be he novice or avid hobbyist, is to present him with a nursery gift order. The recipient may select exactly what type of bulb, evergreen shrub, flower, gardening book or gardening tool he would like. In making nursery gift orders for Christmas you may want to designate the general type of gift: bulb flower, evergreen shrub, a Rose bush, Camellia plant or Rhododendron. Then, you can leave it up to your friend or relative to make the specific choice of colors, variety, etc.

Subscriptions to gardening magazines are appreciated throughout the year.

Poinsettia plants for Yule 'color'

This holiday season, as for many Christmases past, more than 25 million poinsettia plants will decorate American homes. A number of questions about this most popular of all Christmas flowers find their way to the American Association of Nurserymen each year around this time, and here are their answers.

How much light should a poinsettia have in the home? The easiest rule-of-thumb is to place the plant in a room that has enough natural light to permit an individual with reasonable eye-sight to read fine print. Avoid direct sunlight.

What about water? Poinsettias appreciate quite a bit. When the soil feels dry to the touch give it a drink. Remove any excess water, though.

Are poinsettias poisonous? That is a persistent myth that should have been put to rest long ago. There have been cases recorded of children who suffered from upset tummies from eating poinsettia leaves, so family rules against putting anything in their mouths except food products should be observed. But extensive research into the matter has failed to uncover anything more serious than that.

In fact, the Director of the Division of Chemical Hazards, Bureau of Products Safety, Department of Health, Education and Welfare has released this statement about poinsettias: "Although there are a number of reports including the ingestion of parts of the leaves and berries, we have yet to find mention that a child became ill, except for a few cases where vomiting was reported.

In one of the more dramatic investigations of the subject, two Ohio State University scientists force-fed large doses of homogenized poinsettias to 160 laboratory rats — finding the rats showed "no mortality, no symptoms of toxicity, nor any changes in dietary intake or general behavior pattern."

One final item of evidence — the National Clearinghouse for Poison Control Centers in Washington, D.C., the repository for data from Poison Control Centers throughout the country, has no record of any fatality caused by the ingestion of poinsettias.

Another question which arises after the holidays are over and the poinsettia colors begin to fade is this: can the plants be kept until next Christmas? The answer is yes. Cut the plant back to around eight inches to grow as a foliage plant. It can be kept outdoors when temperatures are warm (above 50 degrees at night.)

Poinsettias — one of nature's friendliest gifts for yuletide. They ask for just a bit of pleasant care.

Gardeners check list

—It's time to prune Roses, fruit trees and berries. Hold off pruning Fuchsias until danger of frost is past. Don't prune flowering trees until after spring bloom.

—Those without room to compost fallen leaves should clean up all fallen material to eliminate breeding grounds for insects and plant disease.

—This is bare root season or time to plant deciduous trees and shrubs economically. Bare root planted material establishes easily during the winter months.

—Dormant season sprays effectively clean the yard of fungus and insect outbreaks that trouble gardens in spring.

—Shop nurseries now for Azaleas and Camellias in bloom. Pick your favorite colors and flower forms.

—It pays to buy a good pair of sharp shears to prune trees and shrubs. When thinning never leave stubs long enough to hang your hat on. Cut flush to the limb. When heading back limbs cut to a bud that will grow in the desired direction.

—Spray for Peach Leaf Curl now. Peach trees and nectarines may suffer the severe fungus attack this spring without it.

—Watch Roses for signs that buds are beginning to swell. When they do, sharpen the pruning shears and go to work.

—Houseplants requiring the most light should be rotated in winter to windows with a southern exposure.

—Don't neglect watering duties just because it's cold. Container plants especially should be watered during the dry spells between winter rains.

Here's the answer

Q. — I have heard that there is a way of suspending a ceiling using metal furring strips and would like to try it for a project I have in mind. Is there such a way and where can I find out about it?

A. — There are several ways of suspending ceilings. One method utilizes metal moldings and steel furring channels. The moldings are fastened to the walls. The channels are installed at right angles to the joists. Ceiling tiles are then set into place. Almost all building supply dealers and lumber yards sell the materials necessary for the installation of suspended ceilings. They also have literature on the subject so that you can get some idea of the nature of the job.

Q. — We have a closet in the attic that I would like to convert to a cedar closet. Can this be done by nailing cedar boards right over the present walls, which are made of some kind of wood other than cedar?

A. — Yes. Nail furring strips to the present walls, then attach the cedar boards to the strips. Buy the heartwood cedar. Be sure not to put any finish on the cedar, otherwise the vapor that comes out of the wood will be trapped.

'Skins prefer rainy weather

Don Bradley
Progress Bulletin Staff Writer

Progress Bulletin
Sports
Pomona, California ■ Friday, December 17, 1976

By the Associated Press

"Whatever the weather is up there, it will be Redskins weather," Washington Coach George Allen pronounced.

It ain't necessarily so.

"Up there" is Minnesota, where the forecast for Saturday's opener of the National Football League playoffs calls for temperatures in the low 40s—which is about 20 degrees above normal—and strong winds.

Redskins weather, as Allen's disciples know, is rain ... and rain ... and more rain. Were it not for the rain, the Redskins, winners of the National Conference wild card, might not even be in this NFC first-round playoff against the Vikings.

In Saturday's American Conference playoff opener, New England's wild-card Patriots visit the Oakland Raiders, the winningest team in the league this year at 13-1. On Sunday it's Los Angeles at Dallas in the NFC and Pittsburgh at Baltimore in the AFC.

Recall, if you will, last October. The Redskins had lost to Chicago and Kansas City in successive weeks and trailed St. Louis by one game and Dallas by two. Another loss would be severely damaging.

Into Washington came Detroit—and in, too, came a typhoon. RFK Stadium became a mudbowl, the Lions sloshed around helplessly and what was supposed to be a very close game—and many predicted a Detroit victory—wound up with the 'Skins on top 20-7.

Eight days passed and into Washington for a Monday night game came the Cardinals. Allen waved his sorcerer's wand again and—abracadabra—the skies reopened. The Cards, rated favorites for the game, slipped, slid and generally went nowhere—or went somewhere and fumbled the ball away when they got there. Washington won 20-10 and was back in the race, a race they stayed in to the final game, when they upset Dallas to take the NFC wild card.

Now it's the Vikings who are favored against this band of old guys who seem to come back from the precipice each week. Bud Grant, coach of the Vikings, isn't taking them lightly.

"Washington is like any other playoff team," he says. "They can all beat you. They're playing their best ball at the end of the season and that's important.

"They're a lot like us. They have an experienced quarterback and big-play people, their defense is sound and they've got a lot of experienced hands."

Oakland's Raiders have a lot of playoff experience, too. And in a strange sort of way, that's their biggest problem. Their experience, year after year, is that they're bounced out of the playoffs before they get to the Super Bowl.

In the past nine years, they've won eight division titles. But they haven't made it into an NFL title game since Super Bowl II after the 1967 season. And they lost that game 33-14 to Green Bay.

"Every year at this time, we've got a monkey on our backs. The only way we're going to get it off is by going to the Super Bowl," says quarterback Ken Stabler.

Oakland takes a 10-game winning streak into the game against the Pats, the team which last beat the Raiders. And it was some beating. Steve Grogan, New England's young quarterback, passed for three touchdowns and ran for two in the 48-17 romp on Oct. 3 at Foxboro, Mass.

Fred Biletnikoff of Oakland has suffered through all those almost-but-not-quite seasons and thinks another near miss could really do psychological damage to the club.

"I would hate to see this team lose," he said. "This is a more emotional team. It would hurt this team more than it ever hurt the others."

Steelers have put it together

If defense and momentum are the main ingredients, then the red hot Pittsburgh Steelers have the most going for them in the NFL Playoffs beginning Saturday.

The Steelers lost four of their first five games, then did an about face and won their last nine in a row. The two-time defending Super Bowl champions not surprisingly had the best defense.

Pittsburgh's veteran defense allowed the fewest points, 138 or 9.9 per game. The Steelers allowed only 14 touchdowns which tied and league record for a 14-game season.

They didn't allow a touchdown in eight of their last nine games, didn't permit a touchdown rushing in the last nine games and only two passing in the last 11!

The Steelers gave up an average of just 237.4 yards per game and only 104.1 rushing. They also allowed just 182 first downs, an NFL low.

On the other hand, on offense, Pittsburgh led the league in rushing with 2,971 yards or an average of 212.2 per contest. Franco Harris (1,128) and Rocky Bleier (1,036) were only the second pair of NFL running backs to reach the thousand-yard mark during the same season. Larry Czonka (1,117) and Mercury Morris (1,000) did it for Miami in 1972.

Quarterback Terry Bradshaw ranked only 10th among AFC passers. But Bradshaw missed all or part of six games with injuries. So it's not surprising that he completed under 50 percent (92 of 192) of his passes. 10 went for touchdowns and nine were intercepted.

Face a rough road

However, the Steelers will need everything going for them they can muster since their road to the Super Bowl is blocked first by Baltimore and then probably by Oakland both of whom they must play in the other team's stadium.

Baltimore's young team topped the NFL in scoring (417 points) and total yards gained (5,236). The Colts averaged a total of 374 yards a game, 209.1 passing and 164.9 rushing. Their 301 first downs was a club record.

Signal caller Bert Jones was barely edged by Oakland's Kenny Stabler as the AFC's top passer. Jones completed 60.3 percent (207 of 343) passes for 3,104 yards and 24 TDs while being intercepted only nine times.

Lydell Mitchell finished second to O.J. Simpson among AFC runners with 1200 yards on 289 carries (4.2 average). He also was the third leading pass receiver with 60 receptions good for 555 yards. Saturday's AFC game between Oakland and New England will be a battle of contrasting offensive styles and similar defenses. Both clubs use the 3-4 defense carried to the prosby the Patriots' Chuck Fairbanks.

The Raiders set an NFL record by completing 64.3 percent of its passes and that was exceeded by Kenny Stabler's remarkable records.

"The Snake," as Stabler is called, completed a stunning 66.7 percent (194 of 291) of his throws. They netted 2,737 yards and 27 touchdowns with 17 interceptions.

Best since Baugh

That's the second highest percentage in league history. Slingin' Sammy Baugh of Washington had a 70.3 percent in 1945.

The Raiders finished second to Baltimore in offense by averaging 370.7 yards a game and led in first downs with 303.

New England signal caller Steve Grogan scored 13 touchdowns himself and was second (to Harris) in scoring with 78 points. The 6-4, 205-pound, second-year man ranked 12th among AFC quarterbacks. He completed 145 of 302 passes (48 percent) for 1,903 yards and 18 touchdowns but had 20 intercepted. The interceptions topped the conference.

Grogan directed the Patriots to an average of 335.7 yards a game, 211.2 rushing and 1.24.2 passing. The Pats' defense gave up an average of 287.3 yards a game.

Oakland averaged 207.5 yards a game passing and 124.1 rushing. But the Raiders' defense allowed an average of 312.8 yards per contest, most of any playoff team (Baltimore was second most porous giving up an average of 299.1).

The Raiders should beat the Pats and the sizzling Steelers rate an edge over the Colts. That will set up another of those great Pittsburgh-Oakland confrontations at Oakland a week from Sunday.

In the next installment, we'll look at the NFC participants, the Rams, Cowboys, Vikings and Redskins.

HERE 'N THERE — San Diego Chargers owner Gene Klein seems intent on giving Tommy Prothro enough time to convince everybody that he can't, that's can't, coach in the pros.

Under Prothro, the Rams went downhill steadily in his two years. After an 8-5-1 season in 1971, they dropped to a 6-7-1 in 1973, the only year they have been under .500 since 1966.

Perez feeling happy but sad

CINCINNATI (AP) — A large multi-year contract, a promise to play everyday and competition from young Dan Driessen were the factors that convinced veteran Cincinnati Reds first baseman Tony Perez to agree to the trade to Montreal.

"I am both happy and sad," Perez told a news conference after the Reds announced the trade involving four players. Perez and young relief pitcher Will McEnaney went to the last place Expos for pitchers Woodie Fryman and Dale Murray.

"I think Will McEnaney and me can give Montreal a winning attitude," said Perez, reminded he said previously he would only agree to a trade to a contending club.

"They have a lot of young players and they have some new players," Perez said. "Also, the multi-year contract will give my family security. That is important."

Perez said he was looking forward to playing in Montreal's new stadium but most of all, he will be playing on a regular basis.

Perez refused to say how long the contract was for or how much it will pay, but conceded he has a no cut, no trade clause.

Teammate Johnny Bench, at the press conference, said the contract was "pretty good.

"He deserves a big contract as much as anybody in this day and age of big contracts," said Bench, adding that the club's all-time leading runs batted in leader would be missed. "But we can't let it affect us. We're paid for winning," Bench said.

"Thanks for all the years," said Perez, hugging Bench before telephoning the news to his sons, Victor and Eduardo in Puerto Rico.

"They wanted to know if the Montreal catcher can hold as many baseballs in one hand as Johnny Bench," giggled his wife, Petuka.

Fryman, a 36-year-old veteran of 12 major league seasons, compiled a 13-13 record for the Expos, who finished last in the Eastern Division of the National League in 1976. He has won 105 games playing in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Detroit and Montreal.

"We needed another lefthanded starter. And in Fryman we have a veteran who knows how to pitch," said Bob Howsam, president and general manger of the Reds.

Murray, a right-hand relief pitcher, led the league with 81 appearances last season and finished with a 4-9 record and a 3.27 earned run average.

McEnaney was the winning pitcher in the last game of the World Series final games the last two seasons. However, his record last season fell below his 1975 mark of 2.47 ERA in 70 games. He was 2-6 with a 4.87 ERA.

Russell receives big pay increase

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Shortstop Bill Russell, who had his best year in the major leagues in 1976, signed a three-year contract Thursday with the Los Angeles Dodgers, the team announced.

Dodger Vice President Al Campanis made the announcement, but declined to specify terms of the contract.

Russell, 28, hit .274 with five home runs and 65 runs batted in during the just-completed season. He was second to Ron Cey on the club in game-winning hits with 12.

At the All-Star break, Russell was hitting .303 and was named to the National League All-Star team for the second time.

The 6-foot, 180-pound blond from Broken Arrow, Okla., has been in the majors since 1969, but he was injured much of 1975 and hit only .206 in 84 games. His lifetime batting average is just under .260.

Championship game
Pasadena vs. L.B. Poly, 9 p.m.

Pasadena knocked off Verbum Dei, 59-53, Thursday night and Poly downed Corona del Mar, 55-45. Verbum Dei and Corona del Mar will battle for third place tonight at 7.

Ganesha, which beat Palos Verdes, 68-66 Thursday afternoon on a last-second basket by junior James Verdon, was scheduled to meet Clark of Las Vegas, Nev., for the consolation title today at 5 p.m. Clark eliminated Workman, 62-54, Thursday afternoon.

Last year, Long Beach Poly was rated tops among CIF teams and Santa Barbara was ranked second when the two collided for the Tournament of Champions title. Poly won that game, 41-30, and went on to claim the CIF 4A championship with a 30-1 record.

This year, Poly started the campaign as the Los Angeles Times' top-ranked team and Pasadena was No. 2, but Pasadena's Bulldogs moved into the top spot and the Jackrabbits fell to second after they lost to Ventura last week.

Prep Sports Magazine rated Poly the No. 7 team in the nation before the season began, but Basketball Weekly picks Pasadena 11th in the country and Poly 14th.

"Last year's team this is not," Ron Palmer, Poly's personable coach, said at one point during Thursday's win over Corona del Mar.

But he elaborated on the remark after the contest.

"Talent-wise, this team is better than last year's," he said. "I've got 11 or 12 players I can use this year and last year I had only seven or eight.

"But this team is very inexperienced. Last year's team had played together for a couple of years, but these guys have really only been together for two months."

Dino Gregory, a 6-foot-8 senior, transferred to Poly from Philadelphia and 6-7 sophomore Ray Whiting is only a sophomore. Guard Tony Gwynn is Palmer's only returning starter.

"We are not nearly the team now that we will be in a month and a half," said Palmer. "We should improve greatly wtih experience."

The Jackrabbits should get a good dose of experience when they meet the Bulldogs tonight. Pasadena was able to survive a disastrous first quarter, which ended 18-7, and come back to beat the Eagles by outscoring them, 38-22, in the second half.

Keith Hood and Barry Brooks led the Bulldogs with 16 points each and Tim Will added 14.

Dale Wilson and Maurice Williams paced Verbum Dei with 14 points apiece but Leonel Marquetti, who scored 26 points against Ganesha Tuesday, was held to six by Pasadena.

Long Beach Poly shot a miserable 31 per cent in the first half and was tied with Corona del Mar at 19 at intermission. But the Jackrabbits hit a hot 66.7 per cent for the final half, and outscored the Sea Kings, 21-12, in the third quarter.

Manuel Johnson, Poly's 6-9 center, led all scorers with 21 points and held Alex Black, Corona del Mar's 6-8 center, to 14.

Ganesha's Giants turned an easy victory into an exciting, final-second thriller by blowing a 15-point first-quarter lead.

"If this team ever plays an entire ball game — puts four good quarters together — we'll annihilate somebody," said Gary Fulkerson, coach of the Giants.

"But we sure haven't done it yet. We just quit today in the second half. It's all mental, but I sure don't know what we'll do about it."

Ganesha outplayed Palos Verdes in every respect in the first quarter, which ended 26-11. The Giants finished the first half with an 18-point lead, 47-29.

But after shooting 50 per cent in that first half, they fell to a pitiful 24.2 in the second half and Palos Verdes, playing without the injured Brian Jackson, a 6-8 preseason All-America selection at center, tied the game at 66 with 13 seconds left on a basket by Terry Moloney.

The Giants were unable to get near the basket during the final 13 seconds, but Verdon, a deadly shooter, hit the winning jump shot just as the final buzzer sounded.

George Hawthorne, Ganesha's 6-10 center, led the Giants with 18 points and 11 rebounds and guard Steve Polee had 18 points, two assists and four steals. Verdon scored 15 points.

Clark, Ganesha's opponent in today's consolation title game, was led by 6-4 Edgar Wickliffe, who made 10 of 12 field goal attempts for 22 points and caught 10 rebounds. Clark shot a fine 55.3 per cent for the game.

Pat Haden may start

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Los Angeles Rams coach Chuck Knox says he is pleased that rookie quarterback Pat Haden appears to be recovering rapidly from strained knee ligaments.

Haden, who had nailed down the starting job before last week's injury against Detroit in the year's last regular season game, participated in an hour-and-40-minute workout Thursday.

But Knox continued to put off naming his starter for Sunday's National Football Conference playoff game against the Cowboys at Dallas.

The workout was devoted to honing the offensive game plan. Haden took his turn behind center with quarterbacks James Harris and Ron Jaworski. The move was a departure from Knox' usual strategy of working out only two quarterbacks.

"I'm very encouraged by the way Pat looks," Knox said. "He's moving around real well out there."

However, he declined to say whether Haden appeared ready to start. The rookie was still listed as questionable.

CIF titles on line tonight

The CIF football titles will be decided tonight in the 2A, 3A and 4A Divisions.

In the 4A final tonight at Anaheim Stadium (8 p.m.) Sierra League power Los Altos (11-1-1) will go against Citrus Belt League co-champion Fontana (11-2-0).

The 3A finale this evening at Citrus College (8 p.m.) will feature Temple City (12-1) vs. Villa Park (12-1).the 2A final, to be staged at UC Riverside (also 8 p.m.) will pit Notre Vista vs. top-seeded Antelope Valley (12-0-1).

Los Altos, which ousted Chaffey in the first-round of the 4A playoffs this fall, enters the game with Fontana as a slight favorite. The Conquerors' only blemishes on the season were a narrow 14-7 loss to league foe West Covina and a 24-24 tie with Sierra champ South Hills.

Fontana, which barely beat Chaffey in CBL play (15-14) to make the playoffs, has upset South Hills and Fountain Valley to reach the finals. Fontana is coached by John Tyree, Los Altos by Dwayne DeSpain.

The 3A final at Citrus College between Temple City (Rio Hondo League runnerup squad this year) and Villa Park (from the Century League) is rated as a toss-up. Temple City is led by senior quarterback Don Stockham, while Villa Park has a one-man gang in running back/defensive back Robbie Martin.

Top-ranked and unbeaten Antelope Valley is favored to win the 2A title over Notre Vista of Riverside. Antelope Valley, which ousted San Dimas last Friday, is led by halfback Bill Hilliker. Notre Vista, champions of the San Andreas League, is paced by Riverside County Player of the Year Ray Jackson, a fullback. Jackson, a 205-pounder, has rushed for 851 yards this fall and also plays defensive tackle.

Cal Poly, Azusa both need a win

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

AZUSA — Local rivals Cal Poly and Azusa Pacific College meet on the basketball court here tonight (8 p.m.) with both teams needing a win.

Poly is 1-5 for the season after Tuesday's 93-79 loss to Whittier College while Azusa is also off to a slow start with a 2-5 mark.

Both teams have been playing rugged schedules in the early going with Poly tackling four major college teams on the road in the East Azusa playing in the Malibu Classic at Pepperdine last weekend.

Poly would especially like a win here since the Broncos face another rugged road trip next week visiting San Francisco State Monday night, nationally-ranked University of San Francisco Wednesday night and Nevada Reno Thursday night.

"I really don't know who will be available for this game," Poly coach Don Hogan said. "We have a lot of illness right now. My main concern now is to get everybody healthy. I'm glad its hitting us now rather than in January when we get into conference play."

Cliff Hamlow, whose APC coaching record is now 421-236, isn't too concerned about the Cougars' record.

"You're always concerned when you lose," Hamlow said, "but you have to take a good, hard look at who you're losing to. The important thing this week is to play well. I'm not down because we've been playing well."

Poly can expect a much different game tonight than in Tuesday's contest when Whittier used its quickness to run oast the Broncs.

"I don't believe we can run with Poly, so we'll have to be patient offensively and concentrate on playing tough, aggressive man-to-man defense," Hamlow said.

"We'll find out which team has the most patience," Hogan added.

Poly enjoys an 8-4 advantage in the series after the two teams split last year.

The Sagehens and the Stags will meet tonight at 7 p.m. to decide the consolation title in the tourney. Cal Baptist and SCC will play at 9 p.m. for the tourney championship.

Pomona-Pitzer (now 3-7) gave host Cal Baptist quite a tussle for a half Thursday night, leading the Riverside school 34-33. However, P-P hit a cold streak at the start of the final half and Cal Baptist pulled away for the win.

Brandon Boyd led the Sagehen scoring with 12 points, Ed McFadden contributing 11 and Steve Pinkston 10. Buddy Rogers of Cal Baptist topped all scorers with 22.

Cal Baptist held a slight edge in rebounds, 34-33, but had fewer turnovers, 14, than the 'Hens' 22.

Claremont-Mudd saw its season mark dip to 1-7 with the loss to SCC. Mark Sunderland led the Stags with 18 points, and had eight rebounds. Stu DuVall added 11 points and nine rebounds. SCC's Ted Burgerson paced the victors with 24 markers.

SCC had the big edge in rebounding, 56-38, and also took advantage of 36 Stag turnovers. SCC is now 4-2 on the year.

Lugo cagers post triumph

The Don Lugo High basketball squad ran its record to 5-1 Thursday with a win over the Covina frosh, 32-31, in the South Hills Frosh Tourney.

Joe Campos led the Lugo scoring attack with nine points. The Q's were to play Northview's frosh squad today at 6 p.m. as the tourney action continues. South Hills finals are set for Saturday at the West Covina school.

Quotes

"The decision is up to the ownership. You'd be concerned too if you had been around here for five years without making the playoffs."—Denver Coach John Ralston after his Broncos finished the season with a 9-5 record, their best ever, following a 28-14 victory over the Chicago Bears.

Mt. San Antonio College stayed alive in the consolation bracket of the Chaffey Tournament with a 73-49 triumph over Glendale but the big story in the tourney Thursday occurred when host Chaffey upset Orange Coast 74-68 in second-round action.

Citrus College was also victorious Thursday as the Owls battled from a 30-12 deficit to upset a tough Golden West squad, 84-76.

The Owls returned to action tonight at 9 p.m. to battle West L.A. for a berth in Saturdey night's championship game. If Citrus wins the Owls will play the winner of the Riverside-Pasadena CC game. MSAC played Chaffey in a 2:30 p.m. consolation contest today.

In other tourney action Thursday, Fullerton romped over San Bernardino Valley, 71-48, El Camino trounced San Diego Mesa, 84-68, Riverside CC defeated L.A. Harbor, 107-90, Pasadena took L.A. Valley, 76-63, and West L.A. edged East L.A., 68-65.

MSAC jumped off to a 5-0 lead against Glendale as the Mounties never trailed in the contest. MSAC broke Glendale's backcourt press which gave Citrus fits Wednesday night.

The Mounties after breaking the press were able to zoom down the court ahead of the Vaqueros' defense for easy hoops. MSAC also geared its offense inside around Earner Mays, John Deck, John Gagne and Steve Nichols. Glendale's big men were helpless aginst this strategy.

"It's nice to get a win," noted MSAC's Gene Victor. "We played very well defensively today against Glendale.

"We were able to break their press and get down the court for some easy hoops."

The Mounties led 29-24 at halftime. But they left the Vaqueros in the dust as MSAC outscored Glendale in the second half of action, 44-25.

Glendale's shooting percentage from the field helped MSAC in building its huge margin of points. The Vaqueros shot 23 percent from the field during the second half of play. Glendale ended the game shooting 31 per cent from the field and 15 per cent at the charity line.

MSAC hit 52 per cent of its shots (33-63) as Bob Vigil with 15 points and Mays 16 points paced the Mountie scoring attack. Mays added 17 rebounds to go along with his 16 points. Deck pulled down 13 rebounds.

Chaffey College shocked its rooting section by posting its first victory in 16 games. Chaffey's losing streak of 16 extended back nine games into last season. Chaffey which had lost 66 of 67 games over the last several years defeated Citrus for its only victory last year. With the win Chaffey is 1-7 on the '76 season.

Orange Coast jumped off to a 2-0 lead but it was the only lead of the ballgame for the Pirates. Chaffey quickly rolled to a 20-12 margin over Orange Coast which the Panther's increased to 16 at 36-20 with 5:53 left in the first half of action.

Poor shooting by the Pirates led to their downfall as they missed eight layups in the opening half. Orange Coast fell behind by 16 points due to bad shot selection and a offense that looked disorganized at times.

Chaffey constantly out hustled the Pirates as the Panthers came up with a lose ball or a rebound that had kangerooed off several Orange Coast player's hands.

Chaffey's head coach Paul Smith commented on his club's first victory, "We had pretty good discipline tonight and offensively we were more patient. We passed the ball well and our combination defense seemed to bother Orange Coast.

"Our style of defense tonight had a lot to do with the tempo of the game and the success we had today. It put us into a run and it kept us moving on offense and from slacking off during the game."

Chaffey had its rooters nervous towards the end as Orange Coast whittled the Panthers' lead to 72-65 with 50 seconds left in the contest. But Anthony Moran's lay-up wrapped up the ballgame as Orange Coast lost by six points.

"We met a team today that was our physical equal," explained Smith in summing up why Chaffey has had problems of bagging a victory.

"We have not had an opportunity to play a team that we could match up with this year before the Orange Coast game. We're forced to play teams that are superior in size and we have not been able to win doing this.

"I'm very proud of the team today yet I know its shortcomings which are a lack of size and lack of experience down through the line-up. This hurts when you play people of superior caliber and experience."

Chaffey's starting five all placed in double figures in the point column. Moran led the Panthers with 17.

Citrus rallied from an 18 point deficit with seven minutes remaining in the first half to defeat a tough Golden West squad.

Golden West was blazing hot at the beginning of the contest as they outscored the Owls 24-6 after the score had been tied at 6-6. Citrus managed only 12 points through the first 13 minutes of action.

Citrus finally got untracked behind the play of Steve Barnes. The Owls chipped away at the Rustlers' margin Golden as they reduced it to five at the intermission at 38-33. Citrus finally took the lead for the first time in the contest with 16:55 left at 43-42. It was a lead they never relinquished despite the Rustlers drawing close at 68-66 with 6:08 left in the contest.

Citrus scoring attack was paced by Barnes (27 points) and Eric Childs with 13. Golden West's top point man was Gary Saunders with 22.

Sports briefs

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bobbie Chacon, the former world's featherweight champion now attempting a comeback, knocked out Mexico's Miguel Meza of Culican at the Olympic Auditorium Wednesday night.

The knockout for Chacon, who weighed 132, came in 44 seconds of the third round. It was a spirited two-gloved fight for the first two rounds with Chacon having a slight edge.

When Meza, 128½ pounds, hit the deck from a series of punches to the head, he was forced to take an eight-count and was declared out of the fight by referee John Thomas as the battle resumed.

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — The American Soccer League expanded to California's Orange County Thursday with the awarding of a new franchise.

Warren Hoffnung and Lee Andrews are the principal owners with a playing site to be determined later.

The Los Angeles Skyhawks sold Orange County territorial rights and, with the franchise from the league, the transaction reportedly was a $500,000 deal.

ASL Commissioner Bob Cousy announced the Orange County franchise and envisioned between 12 and 18 franchises for the coming season. There are now 10 franchises.

Hoffnung and Andrews said the new club would be known as California Sunshine.

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers announced Thursday the release of outfielder Alex Johnson and second baseman Pedro Garcia.

Catcher Bill Freehan was released Wednesday.

Johnson, 34, was signed by the Tigers as a free agent nearly one year ago. He played 125 games for Detroit last season and hit .268.

Garcia was picked up last June by Detroit in a trade which sent Gary Sutherland to Milwaukee. Garcia, 26, played in 118 games in 1976 and batted .204.

CHICAGO (AP) — Michigan State, already on NCAA probation until January 1979 for football recruiting violations, was placed on three years' probation Thursday by the Big Ten Conference.

Conference Commissioner Wayne Duke said his investigation found that from 1967 to 1975 the university committed 97 violations of Big Ten and NCAA rules relating to recruiting, financial aid and benefits for athletes and inadequate control over athletic programs and personnel.

OAKLAND (AP) — Charlie O, the mule and mascot of the Oakland A's, is dead at the age of 20.

Charlie O's keeper, Stanley Cosca, said he died peacefully of a liver ailment at the University of California-Davis Veterinarian Clinic Wednesday evening.

"He was tremendously loved," said Cosca, owner of the Skyline Ranch in Oakland and Charlie O's caretaker during his nine-year career with the A's. "He made so many people, so many children happy."

SAN JUAN (AP) — Former major league baseball star Orlando Cepeda was sentence to five years in jail and fined $10,000 Friday in U.S. District Court here for smuggling and possession of 170 pounds of Colombian-grown marijuana.

Cepeda received the maximum prison sentence allowable under federal law.

BOSTON (AP) — Andrew Puopolo, 22, a Harvard football player who was "brought back from death" by doctors last month after being stabbed in an attack—but never regained consciousness—died today at Tufts New England Medical Center, hospital officials reported.

PERTH, Australia — Pat Bostrom of Seattle fought off leg cramps and upset top-seeded Kerry Reid of Australia 3-6, 6-3, 6-3 in a $16,000 international tournament.

Chino drops tourney tilt

By TIM CLARK
PB Correspondent

Bob Elder's Chino High basketball squad put up a valiant effort in the semi-finals of the Edgewood tournament Thursday night in West Covina, but fell just short of upsetting tough Bishop Amat, as the Lancers held off the Cowboys, 75-71.

EDGEWOOD TOURNEY

Consolation
Chaffey vs. Edgewood, 5 p.m.

In other second-round tournament action Thursday, Chaffey was triumphant over Neff, 68-59, and Bonita was blitzed by host Edgewood 56-42 in the consolation bracket. In the other semi-final on the championship bracket, powerful West Covina whacked up Monrovia, 66-45.

With only 2:10 remaining in the game, Cowboy center Gene Campbell (19 points) knotted up the score at 68-68 when he sank the second of two free throw attempts. That charity toss was just about all Chino could muster, unfortunately, as Bishop Amat star Alex Acosta went to work.

The 6-2 junior flash first scored the eventual game-winning point with a free throw at 1:46 for a 69-68 lead for the Lancers. Acosta then turned right around and picked off a John Bettencourt pass, and fed the ball to mate Mike Dennis for an easy layup that closed the door on the Chinoions. (Acosta finished with 25 points, giving him 48 in two days).

It was a one-man show in the waning moments of the Chaffey-Neff match also. With the Tigers holding a slim 62-59 lead with 31 seconds remaining, junior guard Chaney Mann went bananas, rebounding, stealing passes, and gunning in the final six points of the ballgame. Mann totaled 14 markers, as did lockermates Randy Johnston (of football fame) and Jim Reinhandt.

In the other playoff of local interest, Bonita blew another halftime advantage (this one 21-19), as the Bearcats were blown out by 5-9 Sam Favata and Edgewood, 20-9 in the third period. Favata, the tourney's leading scorer with 52 points, poured through 12 points on the pourous (72.4 points allowed per game) Bonita defense. Keith Brandt (also well known on the gridirion), the only Bearcat returning letterman, led his squad with 15 potters.

The game for the Consolation championship will be the initial feature today at Edgewood, with the host Trojans meeting Chaffey at 5 p.m. Chino will then vie for third place at 7 p.m., facing Monrovia. In the Championship final at 8:30 p.m., Bishop Amat will attempt to unseat West Covina.

Garey cagers blitz foe

Garey High opened play in the Banning Tourney with a record-shattering performance Thursday night.

The Vikings ran up a school record 123 points in bombing Brentwood, 123-50.

Upland and Ontario also did well in tourney play Thursday. Upland advanced to the championship finals in the Ramona Tourney with a 74-57 win over San Gorgonio, while Ontario also made the championship finals in the Valley Christian Tourney with a 79-69 triumph over Savanna.

In an Arrowhead League game played Thursday, CSDR beat La Verne Lutheran 68-66.

Garey, in advancing its season mark to 4-2, outscored Brentwood 41-12 in the second quarter to ice the win. Viking center James Lofton led all scorers with 34 points, and also pulled down 14 rebounds. Herbi Banks added 21 points to the locals' cause, while Craig Snyder had 16 points and a game-high 16 rebounds. Ken Ottrix had 10 points and 11 assists in the easy win.

Garey will play La Sierra of Riverside tonight at 6:30 p.m. in the championship semifinals of the Banning Tourney. La Sierra beat Bloomington 63-45 Thursday.

Upland ran its season mark to 5-2 with the win over San Gorgonio. The Highlanders will play Ramona for the tourney title tonight at 8 p.m.

Center Kent Byer led Upland with 21 points vs. San Gogo, while Steve Hanson added 19 to the win. The Highlanders made 20 of 25 free throws to ice the triumph.

Ontario built up a big lead over Savanna and glided to its seventh win of the year against only one loss. The Jaguars will play host Valley Christian tonight at 8 p.m. in the finals.

Center John Donaldson led the way with 24 points and 20 rebounds vs. Savanna. Otis Manning added 18 points and six assists, while Mickey Donaldson scored 12 points. Brett Heiger led Savanna with 24 points.

Lutheran's Gregg Guenther scored 26 points Thursday but it wasn't enough as CSDR edged the Trojans. CSDR's John Couch paced the victors with 22 points.

Lutheran saw its Arrowhead League mark dip to 2-1 and its season ledger fall to 5-3. The Trojans will entertain Western Christian in a non-league game Saturday night at 8 p.m. at LeRoys' Boys Home in La Verne.

Gosswiller scores 30

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP) — Mark Gosswiller of Montclair dropped in 30 points to lead Northern Arizona to a 115-68 victory over Cal State-Dominguez Hills in a non-conference basketball game here Thursday night.

Gosswiller scored 20 of his points in the first half. Willard Tsingine added 20 points, David Henson 19 and Ray Tsingine 14.

Heading the scoring list for Cal State was Stan Edmonds with 26 points while John Green had 17.

NAU led all the way as Coach John Birket cleared the bench, holding a 58-29 margin at halftime.

In the past 10 years Arizona State football teams show a 34.8 points-per-game average.

Brooks gets job at Oregon

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Rich Brooks, who played football and coached at rival Oregon State, was named head football coach at the University of Oregon Thursday night.

Brooks, an assistant coach at UCLA, replaced Don Read, fired in November after three consecutive losing seasons with the Pacific-8 Conference team.

Oregon Athletic Director John Caine said Brooks, 35, received a four-year contract at $32,000 per year.

Caine said he recommended Brooks for the job from a list of four finalists.

"The obvious things are that he is an experienced recruiter on the West Coast," Caine said. "All his coaching experience has been on the West Coast

DFG announces new game regs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The new 1977 fish and game regulations adopted recently protect small black bass, ban abalone fishing for five years in some Southern California coastal waters and allow underwater spearfishing in part of the Tule River Drainage.

The California Fish and Game Commission rejected a proposal to open San Francisco Bay to night fishing after hearing considerable opposition to the plan over the past six weeks.

The commission also adopted a rule that says fishing boats must not be in possession of more than 40 tons of herring at one time. Charles Fullerton, director of the Fish and Game Department, said the rule was imposed because herring processors have been unable to handle the loads on the docks.

But Warren Nubosada, a Monterey boat operator, asked, "Why should we be penalized because the processors don't have the capability of using what we're able to bring back?"

The commission's 1977 rules make it illegal to take black bass under 12 inches long in Don Pedro Reservoir, Tuolumne County; Lake McClure, Merced County; and Lake Millerton in Fresno and Madera counties. A similar size restriction is in effect on nine other lakes.

The five-year ban on abalone fishing applies to an area from Palos Verdes Point in Los Angeles County to Dana Point in Orange County.

A special one-month season for Sacramento perch was set up on Crowley Lake in Mono County. The seasons runs from Aug. 1 through Labor Day and restricts anglers to using artificial lures with single hooks.

As required this year for the first time, the Fish and Game Department prepared abbreviated environmental impact statements on all the changes made.

Ski season opens in East, Midwest

By Associated Press

While many Eastern and Midwest ski resorts are enjoying their best early winter conditions in years, some Western United States resorts describe their slopes as "two and a half feet of weeds" or "bare as a baby's behind."

Resorts in Colorado, Washington, Utah, Idaho, Northern California and New Mexico reported poor-to-horrible snow conditions. Many were opening late and sustaining huge financial losses.

At the same time, resorts along the Eastern Seaboard and the Wisconsin and Michigan areas all boasted good snow.

Only one of four mountains at Aspen—the Highlands—was open to skiing while at President Ford's Rocky Mountain hideaway in Vail, Colo., there was no skiing at all. It was only the third time in Vail's 15-years history that the resort had not been open by Thanksgiving.

Nearby Copper Mountain opened on a limited basis last weekend, but skiing was described as poor-to-fair.

The only two Rocky Mountain resorts with good snow were Keystone and Winter Park, located along the continental divide. Both use a man-made snow base.

Resorts in the Cascade Mountain range in Washington, which generally open over the lucrative Thanksgiving weekend, were still closed last weekend and losing as much as $300,000 a week, says Ian Brown, president of Western Washington Ski Promotions.

"The slopes are bare as a baby's behind. Area operators are tearing their hair out," says Stephanie French, editor of the Northwest Skier. "I wish New York would ship us some of their snow."

Officials at the Bogus Basin ski area north of Boise, Idaho, described their course as nothing but a patch of weeds. They also normally open over Thanksgiving.

Bogus Basin, which lost $4,000 a day in lift passes alone over Thanksgiving, has laid off 25 employes, and they won't be rehired until conditions change.

Sun Valley, meanwhile, is operating on a limited basis but has not suffered financially, officials say, because the posh resort doesn't normally enter peak season until Christmas. There currently is a 14-18 inch base, all man-made, on one slope, and work is underway to open others.

None of Utah's 13 ski areas, which normally open in late November, was open last weekend. Earl Hanson, director of the Utah Ski Association, has predicted losses would exceed $1 million.

In Northern California, Incline Village—using man-made snow—was the only one of 35 resort areas operating. Most ski resort owners, however, said they would not begin to worry until around Dec. 20.

Bob Roberts, head of the Sierra Ski Association, said it was too early to estimate losses since "once the snows come down, there's lots of pent up skier feeling that could make up for a disastrous start."

Several northern New Mexico resorts, including Taos Ski Valley and Red River, remained closed, while skiing at Sierra Blanca and Ski Cloudcroft in south-central New Mexico was at or near normal.

Vermont, Pennsylvania and New York ski resorts were all ahead of schedule.

At Jay Peak in northern Vermont, Steve Beerworth said: "It's been exceptionally good. We have 50-60 inches of total snowfall now. Last year, we couldn't even open until Dec. 23. This is the best year, snowwise, I've seen in my eight years here."

Vermont's Glen Ellen ski area still hasn't opened its main mountain, which didn't open until Dec. 22 last year, but spokeswoman Barbara Scott said they had "more snow on the ground than was normal."

Camelback, Eastern Pennsylvania's largest resort, opened Dec. 3 with four of its 16 slopes and trails in operation—a little ahead of schedule.

"The cold weather has put us a litle ahead of years gone by," said Harvey Johnson. "Usually we have cold nights when we can make snow. But this year it's been cold enough to make snow 24 hours a day for up to four days at a time."

Camelback had between 2,500 and 3,000 skiers, "one of the best opening weekends we've ever had," Johnson said.

In upstate New York, both Cockaigne and Kissing Bridge opened ahead of schedule. The snowpack at Cockaigne was more than 70 inches, while Kissing Bridge had 30 inches. Both resorts have been making snow.

Criagmeur in northern New Jersey opened last weekend, one week late, because of expansion. The resorts expected to have 30 inches of man-made snow for its opening.

Resorts in North Carolina and Tennessee also reported good skiing.

Ricky Marquart, manager at Beech Mountain in North Carolina, reported 110 inches of snow. "It's one of the best seasons we've ever had," Marquart said. Beech Mountain, which doesn't normally open until Dec. 15, began operations before Thanksgiving.

At Tennessee's only resort, Gatlinburg, ski director Rolf Lanz reported 24-30 inches of hard-packed snow. "This is fantastic for this time of year," he said. "We've only been able to open on the first of December four or five times in the 12 years I've been here."

Both Wisconsin and Michigan resorts opened early.

"We've had premature snow, especially in the southern part of the state," which caters to the Chicago area, said Faith Svensson of the Wisconsin Dept. of Busiess Development. "And the ski resorts are just tickled pink. Everybody is in business." Slopes in upstate Wisconsin, which usually try to open around Thanksgiving, opened three weeks ago.

ROLLING STONE

Record Reviews

By DAVE MARSH

ROD STEWART: "A Shot of Rhythm and Blues" (Private Stock PS 2021).

A collection of tracks from the very early Sixties, when Stewart sang with a British R & B band. The best items here are a version of Sam Cooke's "Shake" — Stewart's current hit, "Tonight's the Night," has roots in this — and the great guitar sound of "Why Does It Go On?," a piece of unfulfilled Spector pop. Unfortunately, this album is also a bit of a cheat: the cover depicts the contemporary Stewart, the liner note call it a collector's item without offering any of the data a collector desires, and the music is thoroughly mediocre. The most exceptional thing about this album, in fact, is the sound quality, which is roughly pre-World War II.

* * *

THE QUICK: "Mondo Deco" (Mercury SRM-1-1114).

Producer-impresario Kim Fowley's followup to the all-teen-age-girl Runaways is this male equivalent. Like all of Fowley's proteges, Quick is long on power chords, short on melody. But they're superior in one sense: The Quick swiped its riffs from such British invasion acts as the Beatles and the Who, while the Runaways seem to have used a cement mixer for their inspiration. If that seems small solace, it is.

* * *

CATE BROS.: "In One Eye and Out the Other" (Asylum 7E-1080).

Thanks to producer Steve Cropper, an original blue-eyed soul man, the second Cate album is much funkier than the first. It now becomes apparent that their ambition is to approximate modern soul music, much as Average White Band and Wild Cherry have done. Ernie Cate is a much better singer than anyone in either of those groups; his Al Green fantasy is first-rate. But the problem, as AWB has discovered, is that this stuff, which rarely relaxes its groove or shifts into uptempo beats, gets awfully tedious around the third or fourth album . . . and the signs of tedium are already sadly apparent in this otherwise pleasant record.

* * *

KINKY FRIEDMAN: "Lasso from El Paso" (Epic PE 34304).

To be effective, parody ought to approach its subject with compassion, even affection, plus a fair measure of skill. Kinky Friedman has too little of both. His spoofs of country-and-western songs and attitudes are more vulgar and vicious than the originals, and contribute nothing to one's perception of the genre. The only thing worse is his semi-straight love song, "Twinkle," and his update of the novelty oldie, "Ahab the Arab." For better C&W satire, listen to Bobby Bare's "Dropkick Me Jesus (Through the Goalposts of Life)," which is not only infinitely more perceptive, but also sung by one of the better country singers of the day. Friedman, needless to add, is one of the worst.

Watergate book set for video

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The company," the novel by Watergate figure John Ehrlichman will be the basis for a mini-series on the ABC television network next season.

The network announced that the novel will be filmed as "Washington," in segments of at least eight hours. David Rintels, Emmy winner for "Fear on Trial" and "Clarence Darrow," wrote the first two hours and an outline of the rest of the series, collaborating with Eric Bercovic. They will also produce the show for Paramount Television, with Stanley Kallis as executive producer.

Ehrlichman, now in prison for misdeeds as President Nixon's assistant for domestic affairs, wrote a fictional account of a President Richard Monckton, who ushered in "a new era of presidential isolation and political reprisal."

Paramount schedules 'Big Deal'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Paramount Pictures will film "Big Deal on Madonna Street," a comedy adventure about a group of unemployed blue collar workers who attempt a monumental crime.

Arlene Sellers and Fernando Ghia will produce the film in 1977, from a script by Charles Shyer and Alan Mandel.

'Remembered Laughter'

Noel book for Christmas

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The book is called "Remembered Laughter," and that's the way Cole Lesley recalls his 37 years as secretary and companion to the multi-talented Noel Coward.

"Of course Noel had his bad moments — and bad years," says Lesley. "But he refused to be defeated. Even in the worst of times he was always so entertaining that he made me laugh."

Lesley has produced a biography which is probably the most closeup view of Coward that will ever be written. "Remembered Laughter" (Knopf, $12.95) is an affectionate account, yet it is one that deals frankly with its subject.

"He was a homosexual," Lesley writes. "There is nothing sensational to report. He enjoyed sex as much as the next man and made no secret of it, but a list of people he went to bed with would, by and large, prove uninteresting, and in any case his own good taste and behavior over this matter must be respected."

The author added in an interview: "Noel didn't like being in love. He hated dependence on another person. To him falling in love was an obsession, and he disliked waiting for the telephone to ring. Whenever he found himself getting too involved, he took a trip. He always believed in geographical distance as a cure to romance."

Lesley, a soft-voiced, tweedy Englishman, was visiting here with longtime friend Merle Oberon. She was partly responsible for his writing about his years with Coward. Also Irving Lazar, literary agent for such divergent talents as Richard Nixon and Vladimir Nabokov.

"Swifty (Lazar) often visits Nabokov in Switzerland, and his house is just 2000 feet away from where I still live in Noel's house," said Lesley. "Swifty urged me to write the biography, and I agreed.

"It took me almost two and a half years, and I wrote every word myself. I learned from Lilli Palmer, who is another neighbor, to write first with pencil, then type it yourself. Then you can see what it's going to look like in print. That was another lesson from Noel as well. If you're writing dialogue which will only be heard, then you can use longhand; prose must be typed, so you can see what it will look like."

Lesley had good sources for his research. Coward's mother had kept all the letters her son wrote her during his youth and early career. Coward also kept a journal during the years following World War II. Furthermore, Lesley had been witness to most of the events of Coward's life from 1936 to his death in 1973.

The world thinks of Coward as the eternally debonair, totally sophisticated man of the world. Didn't he ever have black periods?

"Not really," said the biographer. "Critically he hit a bad dip after the war. But then he had the immense advantage of being an actor, so he developed the cabaret act he played in Paris and Las Vegas and on three television specials here. And he returned to the London theater in Shaw's 'The Apple Cart' and in films such as 'Our Man in Havana.'

"He did say, 'I would like to write one more good play and go back to the (London) West End theater. And at age 66 he got his wish. His career was rounded off with three enormous hits running at the same time."

Coward's immense success came with a string of hits of the 1930s — "Cavalcade," "Design for Living," "Private Lives," "Tonight at 8:30" and with the wartime films "In Which We Serve" and "This Happy Breed." Despite the postwar slump he was never in financial straits, said Lesley.

"In 1955 his lawyers became worried because no capital was coming in," said the author. "Noel had a large apartmet in London and a country house in the country, but he was hardly ever there. They convinced him to change his residence to avoid the heavy English taxes."

In his late years Coward made his home in Switzerland and in Jamaica, where he died at 72.

"He died quietly and alone, trying to be a trouble to no one," said Lesley. "He was a happy man. And although I realize it is unfashionable nowadays, I think I have written a happy book."

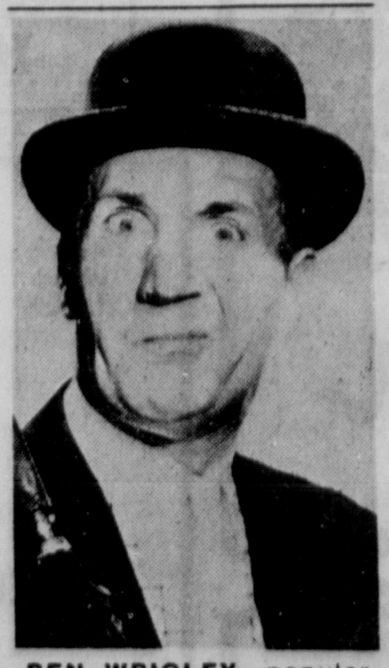
Film actor decides on Hollywood

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After trying other cities, Peter Finch has concluded the best place for a film actor to live is Hollywood.

The star of "Far from the Madding Crowd," "Sunday, Bloody Sunday" and the current "Network" has bought a house here and plans to stay. Born in Australia, he spent part of his childhood in France and achieved acting success in England.

"But I don't like living there, and my wife doesn't like the climate," Finch says. "I tried Paris, but like New York, it is a lovely place to be — but not for a long time. I lived in Switzerland, and found the life very orderly there, but dull. Jamaica I loved, but I decided it was a mistake for an actor to be so far away.

"It makes sense for me to live in Hollywood. It is still the center of the movie business."



BEN WRIGLEY, popular British comedian, hosts "Charles Dickens' Music Hall" in the Showcase Theater at Magic Mountain, Valencia, Saturday through Dec. 24.

TV film really a movie

By JERRY BUCK

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Veteran motion picture producer Ross Hunter insists "The Moneychangers" is a first-rate movie even though he made it for television.

He said he made it exactly as he would have for theater release, except for the length: 6½ hours.

"Outside of the length, I wouldn't have changed it for a movie," he said. "It has movie production values. I used one director and did not shoot it episodically. The script, the stars, all would have been the same."

Three chapters have already been telecast, and the final 90-minute segment will be shown on NBC at 9:30 p.m. Sunday.

Kirk Douglas and Christopher Plummer play two vice presidents struggling for the presidency of an international banking corporation. The series was adapted from the book by Arthur Hailey.

The cast includes Helen Hayes, Anne Baxter, Timothy Bottoms, Ralph Bellamy, Susan Flannery, Percy Rodriguez, Patrick O'Neal, Lorne Greene, Joan Collins and Jean Peters.

What concerned Hunter, producer of "Airport" — also based on a book by Hailey — and other hit movies, was what he saw as the difference between the two mediums.

"We found that when you work for television you're basically a manufacturer because of the limited time and budget," he said. "When you work for the large screen you're a creator. What we've tried to do is meld the two."

Hunter said he was intrigued by the idea of bringing a best-seller to the screen while it was still a hot book — and by making it full length. Only TV could satisfy those two requirements.

As a producer, Hunter was not noted for racy films. Doris Day's "Pillow Talk" was about as sexy as he got. But in making "The Moneychangers" he ran into network censorship.

"Censorship is ridiculous," he said. "You have to live with your own taste. NBC cut out a close-up of a bullet hitting Percy Rodriguez in the shoulder and Joan Collins' nudity."

A prison scene involved a homosexual rape of Timothy Bottoms. "NBC said, 'Knowing you it will be done in good taste,' " Hunter related. "I said, 'How do you do a rape scene in good taste?' Timothy was uptight about the scene. There were a hundred extras nude in the showers. You know what's going on but you don't see it.

"Another scene called for Avril to be nude. We suggested a flesh-colored bathing suit, but Joan Collins, who plays the role, insisted on being nude. We shot it the way we thought it should be done, then cut it for television."

There's an all-star cast for NBC's "Christmas Around the World" at 8 p.m. Sunday. The stars tell of Christmas in other lands: Vikki Carr for Mexico, Gene Kelly for Ireland, Dick Van Dyke for Holland, Liv Ullman for Sweden, Marcel Marceau for France and Jonathan Winters for the United States.

"It's amazing to see through-out the world how similar everyone is," said Miss Carr, who leads a group of children through the Las Posadas pageant.

Help out on the road

Mental health program on CB

By INK DIPPER

(Editor's Note: Ink Dipper, KYZ-3916, is the handle of the editor of the CB Times-Journal.)

Truckers, hailed as the last of the American cowboys, are in a business that breeds mental problems. For long hours, they're isolated from people, shut up in lonely truck cabs with only their problems to keep them company.

But a few of them are beginning to find help while they're out on the road, thanks to a Bowling Green, Ohio, agency that provides mental health counseling and referral services over CB radio channel nine.

The CB hook-up is through The Link, an agency funded by tax money and private donations to provide mental health counseling and services to area residents.

Using a CB radio was the idea of Dr. Harve Meskin, executive director of The Link.

Meskin, who became director in July, came up with the idea when he moved to Bowling Green from Arkansas, where he had received his doctorate.

"I noticed a lot of people communicating over CBs. It seemed like a logical extension of our services," he says. "Hopefully this will someday be expanded into a nationwide network."

The program has applied for a federal grant to set up a mental health counseling program for truckers on a broader scale to see if it's feasible. Right now, The Link is working in a field of mental health that otherwise has been neglected.

"Because of their work, truckers haven't been accessible to help," he says. "They're always on the move, and they're cut off. These people need help just like anyone else, and because of the nature of their work probably need it more.

"Since they're always on the move, they can't find out how to get help for personal problems. Maybe they have problems with drugs or alcohol. Maybe a trucker is afraid that his wife is abusing their children, and he needs to know how to get help."

Meskin says that The Link, which is open 24 hours a day, hasn't provided much direct counseling over the CB, but it has set up counseling for truckers either on the telephone or at the project's office in a converted house in Bowling Green.

Because the CB is a sort of public party line, truckers have been reluctant to discuss their problems over the radio, he says.

So far, The Link has been receiving a couple of CB calls a day, and its counselors have been telling people where to go for help and how to seek social or mental health services. They've also listened to the trucker's troubles, which is a help for some of the highway cowboys.

The calls have come in because of word-of-mouth or a few stories which have appeared in magazines or newspapers. Eventually, Meskin wants to have a sign placed on a nearby interstate giving The Link's call letters and the channel it monitors.

The Link has also provided help for people who are not truckers.

"One thing we didn't expect," says Meskin, "is a large amount of contact we've had with people out on the highway at night and under stress because their car has broken down or run out of gas.

"At the risk of sounding sexist, a lot of these calls are from women who are waiting for the police or a wrecker, and they're scared out there in the dark. It's a great benefit for our counselors just to talk to them, to let them know somebody knows where they are."

Meskin says that it's still too early to evaluate how well the CB contact is working. As more truckers find out about it, he expects the CB to become busier. Using the CB in mental health counseling has opened up a new awareness for him about the trucker and his problems, Dr. Meskin says, and he would like to see other mental health programs setting up CB-contact systems.

"The truckers have problems and needs that have to be met," he says. "They are, after all, the people who keep this country going, and we owe them the same services available to everyone else."

Recreation club to see game shows

Calumo, West End recreation club, will sponsor bus trips to Los Angeles to attend television tapings of Tattletales Sunday and Name That Tune Jan. 19.

Tattletales is a CBS game show of celebrity gossip. It allows audience members to receive cash prizes won for them by famous contestant couples. Tickets are $5. The minimum age is 17. The bus will leave Ontario at 1:30 p.m.

Name That Tune is a daytime version of NBC's popular song guessing show. Tickets are $3, and the minimum age is 13. The bus will leave Upland at 3:30 p.m.

Reservations for the bus trips can be made with Laurie Shellorne, Calumo program chairman, at 985-2256.

Students to study diet

NEW YORK (AP) — Nutrition, the science of what happens to the human body as a result of diet, is being introduced to New York Medical College's curriculum this year.

Nutrition has always been passed over lightly in medical schools, says program director Dr. Jack M. Cooperman. "Although students are well-tutored in the fundamentals of basic nutrients, most of them graduate without acquiring practical knowledge of how nutrition relates to good health and to disease processes."

Although Americans are some of the best-fed people in the world, nutritional deficiencies abound and cut across all socioeconomic levels, he adds.

The New York Medical College program, funded by a U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare grant, will cover undernutrition, malnutrition, obesity, and the relationship of diet to physical and mental development and to disorders and diseases such as diabetes and cancer.

Muskets used

Muskets used during the American Revolution had an effective range of 100 yards. By the time of the Civil War, rifled muskets were effective up to at least 400 yards and had a killing power of 1,000 yards, notes National Geographic's book "Clues to America's Past."

GARTH "WOODY" ELLWOOD

Gosh, they have a lot of things going on at GOSH in Claremont! That's Griswold's Old School House, of course, where there are Oodles of drooly shops, some restaurants, and so many activities I can't keep them straight. (Sometimes I wonder if THEY do!)

I was up there last Sunday afternoon participating in one of my favorite outdoor activities — trying to find something kicky and cheap at Griswold's Art Fair — when I heard bluegrass music wafting from the direction on the Pavillion patio. Sounded like "Crabgrass," the group who plays there occasionally. (I understand they'll be opening soon at the Boiler Room, by the way.) I didn't get over to see them (they had plenty of people watching anyhow) but I did find something at the Art Fair. It was neither particularly kicky nor cheap, but at least my little painting is an original.

Back to the things going on at GOSH. The folks up there are calling their Saturday night doin's "Midnight Holly-Baloo," with shops and restaurants in the complex open 'til midnight for your Christmas shopping convenience. Fanny's lunchroom and Casa Ramon will feature food and drink specials tomorrow night, and there will be music all over the premises. There will be a live band and a singing Santa Claus at Fanny's, and the Chamber Music players will be at Ramon's (I enjoyed them last Friday night.) "Tommy and the Starfires" will be making contemporary sounds downstairs in the Boiler Room before and after a Disco Fashion Show, something new there which might bear watching just for fun. The entire lineup is in an ad on page 29 of Weekend!

For some time now, I've gotten occasional notes from our senior citizens wishing there were some place to eat where the portions (and prices) could be whittled to a size more appropriate to their appetite and pocketbook. Well, Gordon Morris at Bit 'O Sweden has gone and done it! At least part of it. The price has been reduced to senior citizens (65 and over) and, because it's a buffet-style restaurant, you can still take as much or as little as you want.

He's the first I know of to offer a 20% discount for seniors, and I was rather anxious to get the word out. And then we blew it! His last week's ad said "Friday is Senior Citizens Day." This is incorrect. The discount is good every day of the week and, better than his past 10% discount offer, it's good any time during regular hours. So, if you're 65 or over, you'll pay $2.44 there instead of the regular $3.05. That's quite inexpensive for a consistently good home-cooked meal which makes me hungry just writing about it.

Otis Roy, Pomona's Yodeling Custodian, has dropped in on me several times during the past month to keep me informed about plans for the Betty Sole benefit. Then today I got a letter from Ponderosa Club owner Ralph Hicks telling me that forty country western performers are signed on for the benefit this Sunday, Dec. 19.

I'm aware of several benefits which have been held in the past, but I've never attended one. Seems to me to be a worthwhile event, though. Country musicians, a friendly lot, come together to give of their talents to raise money for one of their number unable to work because of illness or accident.

Betty Sole, known throughout the San Gabriel and Pomona Valley areas, has performed at hundreds of these benefits in the past, never thinking that she might someday be the recipient of one. But Betty is the victim of Bell's Palsy, a crippling disease which has paralyzed her entire left side.

Since Betty is the sole support for a family of three children, the benefit committee suggests that those attending bring a Christmas present for one of the kids, if they desire. She has a 17-year-old daughter, and two sons, ages 13 and 8. A donation of $2.00 will be collected at the door, children excepted, and door prizes will be given.

The event starts at 1 p.m. and lasts until all artists have performed, until probably 8 or 9 p.m. The event will be co-hosted by Phil Thomas and Billy Webb.

I'm planning to look in on the proceedings Sunday afternoon or evening. That's this Sunday, Dec. 19, at Ponderosa Club, located on Union Street three blocks south of Holt in Pomona. Good cause. If you want more information, you might call Ralph at (213) 332-8837.

Don't Forget To ORDER YOUR FAVORITE PIES FOR CHRISTMAS!!
About Our Pies . . .
O'Reilly's original pie baker, Ruby Paresian, has been baking pies professionally for 22 years. Ruby started baking pies for restaurants in her home many years ago, and finally set up shop at O'Reilly's soon after it was opened in 1962. Ruby still holds to her home-baking methods and uses only the finest ingredients. She insists on fresh peeled apples, fresh grated coconuts, only the finest imported Dutch chocolate and many other quality oriented techniques to insure a fresh, deliciously home baked pie. Every pie is a new and proud creation for Ruby, and we are very proud to have such a lovely, dedicated person on our staff.

RESTAURANT AND NIGHT LIFE

SQUEEZE PLAY is the name of the group appearing now at Papa Bill's in Pomona. Bill's, sporting new 20's-style murals on exterior, is at corner of St. Paul St. and Holt.

TOUCH of Mexico is captured by decor of Casa Tequila, new Mexican restaurant in Rowland Heights. The new restaurant features Tequila Sauza drinks and authentic cuisine.

Wandering with Woody

these days at Elli's Lounge in Pomona. ROB says, "If you like to sing along, dance all night, or just kick back and listen, the 'Double Trouble' will make your evening at Elli's Lounge a memorable one." They play every Tuesday through Saturday, from 9 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. at the 1250 E. Mission nitespot.

. . .Word has it that the new entertainer at Claremont's Ruddy Duck is just what the doctor ordered for providing music in keeping with the atmosphere of the place. He's actually a customer of the restaurant who one night mentioned "you need some soft piano music in here," whereupon owner Wayne Pedersen promptly bought a piano and put him to work. . .five nights a week. How about that!

Whales sighted

SAN DIEGO (AP) — California grey whales, on their annual migration from arctic waters to Scammons Lagone in Baja California, were sighted off San Diego during the weekend.

Ranger John Tucker at the Cabrillo National Monument on the tip of Point Loma said two of the sea mammmals were seen passing southward about two miles off the point Saturday. He said seven more were counted Sunday.

13 arrested in football betting ring

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Thirteen persons have been arrested and three printing presses seized in a series of raids that Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies say were aimed at a football betting operation that grossed more than $500,000 per month.

Vice officers armed with search warrants raided seven locations Monday night, including addresses in Los Angeles, Paramount, Monrovia, Lakewood, Norwalk, and Monterey Park. The printing presses were found in Norwalk.

Those arrested, including a dozen men and one woman, were booked for investigation of conspiracy to commit bookmaking.

Police said the ring printed and distributed 125,000 illegal football betting cards each week.

Old safety rail lights

CLEVELAND (AP) — The flashing red lights at 41,600 of 233,000 public rail grade crossings can be easily overlooked if a motorist is not directly in front of them, says the United Transportation Union's research board.

The board reports it has found that the alternate red lights are outdated for today's high-speed traffic and recommends that they be replaced with xenon flash lamps similar to those used in photography.
